NATION'S TALLEST MONUMENT — The proposed Gateway Arch, which will rise to the height of 630 feet on the St. Louis riverfront, should be completed in about one year, according to Dale Hauser, general manager of the Pittsburgh-Des Moines plant here. The Warren firm is making the graceful stainless steel stations for one of the most unique structures ever built. Stations 71 through 46 have been completed and the company has now erected in the field to the 300 foot level. Progress to date is shown here by Hauser.

Warren Report To Be Available from T-M

A special hard-cover, illustrated edition of the official summary of the Warren Commission Report, the official investigation of President John F. Kennedy's assassination, is being offered to readers of The Warren Times-Mirror.

The special edition will go to press as soon as the report is released—probably this coming weekend. The price will be $1.50 for those readers who wish to pick up a copy at the office and $1.75 for those who wish to have it mailed.

Copies may be reserved by mailing the enclosed coupon to The Times-Mirror, together with the necessary remittance.

The book will be published by others later in hard cover editions, without illustrations at $3.95 and in soft covers at $1. However, by special arrangement with the AP, the books are being offered at this special price.

The Times-Mirror is limited to the number of copies it may order, so those who wish to reserve the book are asked to act quickly. This book will be available only through The Times-Mirror and delivery is expected within 30 days of release of the report.

The Times-Mirror is cooperating with the Associated Press in rushing to press just as soon as the text is available this hard-cover edition of the report. Advance estimates are that the summary runs to more than 300,000 words.

The Associated Press is the nation's foremost news-gathering organization and the one that produced "The Torch Is Passed," which recounted the Kennedy tragedy and sold nearly four million copies in nine months.

AP's edition of the Warren report will be a handsome, illustrated, durable volume that readers doubtless will want to have in their home libraries as a historic document on a momentous event.

To obtain it, send your order to this newspaper with $1.50 in check or money order for each copy desired. Be sure to print your name and address clearly.

General Telephone Co. reported today that its recently installed direct dialing system in Corry was operating about normally.

A malfunction disrupted incoming long distance service Monday. Local and outgoing toll calls were not affected.

William Wentz, supervisor of Allegheny National Forest, was the special guest of Kane Rotary Club Monday, speaking to the group on establishment of youth job camps as part of President Johnson's "War on Poverty" program. He talked, particularly, of the Blue Jay Camp, first to be set up in this area.

Because of a Kane-Johnsonburg football game scheduled Oct. 24, the Kane Kiwanis Club has postponed its 25th anniversary observance until Nov. 14. Making the announcement at Monday night's meeting of the service group, Robert Holland said the speaker for the birthday party will be Marshall Jetty of Brockway, who is a trustee of Kiwanis International.

John Andersen and Lynn Keller have returned from Camp Lutherlyn near Butler, where they attended sessions of the third annual convention of Lutheran Church Men of Western Pennsylvania - West Virginia Synod. They were delegates from the men's group of First Lutheran Church.

Weekend activities included business sessions, panel discussions, Bible study, election and installation of officers for 1965. Robert Hansen of Warren's —See 'MIRROR,' Pg. 10

Rail Strike Is Delayed After Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's trains chugged past another major strike threat today after a scheduled daybreak walk-out was postponed indefinitely.

There appeared little likelihood of a renewal of the strike threat by 150,000 shop workers after negotiators announced a "tentative settlement" of their job security dispute.

The announcement Monday came about 14 hours before the scheduled 6 a.m. strike deadline and ended the second major threat of a virtually nationwide rail tieup since April.

"We have reached an agreement on four of the major issues involved and feel certain we will be able to complete the agreement very soon," said Michael Fox, spokesman for six shop craft unions.

The unions had called the strike against most of the nation's railroads except the Pennsylvania and Long Island railroads, the Southern Railway System and the Florida East Coast.

Francis A. O'Neill, member of the National Mediation Board, said talks were to resume today "to try to wrap up the balance of this dispute."

The sole issue involved in the negotiations is job security, a problem that has increasingly aggravated rail labor relations since railroad modernization began wiping out thousands of jobs over the past 15 years.

No details of the tentative agreement were announced.

Dam Worker Jailed Over Sewer Fees

BRADFORD—A father of five children who said he could not afford $75 to connect his house plumbing to a sewer line was sentenced to 30 days in jail yesterday when unable to pay a $300 fine for failure to comply.

JOHN C. Zumstein, a worker on the Kinzua dam project, was sentenced to the McKean County Jail in Smethport by Alderman Joseph Frampton.

Zumstein said he earns between $110 and $120 a week when weather conditions permit work at the dam. He said money has been short because his youngest child, now 11 months, has been ill since birth. She suffers from acute anemia and blood brought from Pittsburgh has been costly, he explained.

HE SAID this, plus caring for his other children ranging up to 13 years, has depleted his savings and income. He added that his 13-year-old home only has two bedrooms and the family is cramped for space and an addition is needed.

Zumstein said he could not afford the $75 fee to hook into the newly-laid sewer line or the —See 'Dam,' Pg. 10

LBJ Says He Will Recommend Cuts on Excise Taxes Next Year

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) —President Johnson said today he will recommend a cut in excise taxes next year and he hinted at further tax cuts to come if prosperity continues.

This was Johnson's first straightaway disclosure that he favors lower excises — taxes levied on the retail price of a broad variety of items ranging from lipstick to auto tires to telephone calls.

The President, in an address prepared for the 12th biennial convention of the United Steelworkers Union, had this to say about tax policy:

"We will continue a fiscal policy which expands purchasing power to meet our power to produce. The tax cut was a part of this policy. In the future, we will not permit federal

Elk, Glade Twps. Face Land Loss Without Zoning

Elk and Glade townships stand to lose more than 50 per cent of their land to the U. S. government for development in the Kinzua reservoir area if zoning ordinances are not enacted.

NO ACTION is imminent now but the probability definitely exists that in order to provide orderly development of the area the government will acquire the necessary land unless townships pass regulations that would insure the same result.

Glade Twp. is currently being thwarted in its efforts to provide a zoning ordinance by the township taxpayers' league which wants the proposed ordinance scrapped and is circulating petitions to this effect.

ZONING HAS been in the talking stage for the past several years in Elk Twp.

Government acquisition of the land was indicated by Ronald Landis of the Bureau of the Budget, executive to the President, during a visit to the area last week.

HE CONFERRED at length with D. H. Lay, chairman of the board of county commissioners, who was named by the commissioners to an advisory council on recreation development. The council is being established on the recommendation of the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation by the Secretary of Agriculture.

Lay said that Landis inspected the reservoir area Thursday and Friday and was particularly ly interested in development of the west bank.

HE CONFERRED with the commissioner as to township planning and zoning plans, possible county action if obtaining rights-of-way for new roads into planned recreational sites and the local reaction to government purchase of property between the Allegheny River and the Scandia Rd.

Lay said that his conversation with Landis left the impression that the future of private ownership and private development in the reservoir area may be dependent upon the degree of planning and zoning in the affected townships.

HE TOLD THE Times-Mirror that "if they (the townships) do something, if they get together, they won't lose their land."

He said Landis asked such questions as: "If a big land owner wanted to come in and strip the land of timber, could the county do anything about it?"

LAY SAID HE told him that at present the county could not because there is no zoning.

According to the county solicitor, Lay said, the county could zone the area—the entire area or a part of the area—if the townships do not accept this responsibility.

HOWEVER, HE said, "we won't do anything until after the first of the year. We want to give the townships that, much time."

The budget for 1965 will be —See 'Elk,' Pg. 10

90 Square Mile Area Is Charred by Blaze

CALISTOGA, Calif. (AP) — A monster forest fire that marched 18 miles in 15 hours, charring 90 square miles of timber and brush and endangering two cities, neared control by firemen today.

Like a fiery giant in seven-league boots, the blaze strode across the rugged mountains separating the Napa Valley resort town of Calistoga and Santa Rosa, seat of adjacent Sonoma County.

By dawn, weary firefighters appeared to have beaten back the fire 1½ miles southwest of exhausted Calistoga after a siege of two days.

The meandering blast furnace that hoppedscotched the tops of lofty pines over the mountains into Santa Rosa also was contained, but only after three fiery fingers had laid waste to some 25 homes, forced evacuation of about 2,000 persons and threatened a hospital and a convent.

Whipped by high winds to express-train speeds, the fire started on its devastating trek late Monday afternoon.

Earlier in the day, it had swept into Calistoga, destroying or charring 50 homes and putting half the population to flight.

Beaten off once, the fire spread eastward from Calistoga, only to turn once more on the beleaguered city ahead of a shifting wind.

Again firefighters blocked the path of the blaze. And again a capricious wind sent it eastward.

The fire crackled into Santa Rosa early this morning.

Burning out of the mountains and across fields of tinder-dry brush, the fire first threatened Loma Heights, a new subdivision of homes in the $50,000 to $100,000 range.

Firemen saved the subdivision, but the blaze then sped toward the 150-bed Sonoma County Hospital. As city buses stood by to evacuate patients, the fire ran out of fuel at bulldozer —See 'Firemen,' Pg. 10

Destroyers Leave Gulf, Targets Still Mystery

WASHINGTON (AP)—American destroyers were reported out of the Gulf of Tonkin today but what they hit there—if anything—remained a mystery.

Informed sources said the two vessels which fired on radar-spotted targets Friday have been pulled out of the gulf between Red Chinese and North Vietnamese coastlines after finishing their patrol on schedule.

When another destroyer patrol will sail in was left indefinite, but government sources said U.S. vessels will continue to exercise the right to roam international waters. The Navy craft have been going into the gulf periodically despite three incidents since Aug. 2.

The latest shooting occurred in the dark Friday when the two U.S. destroyers opened fire on what appeared to be menacing craft showing on their radar screens. Authorities said the radar definitely locked onto solid objects. According to the U.S. account, there was no return fire and the objects disappeared from the radar screens.

U.S. sources said investigation so far has produced no evidence of hits, such as debris or floating bodies. A Navy team has gone to the Far East to make an inquiry. It is not expected back until late next week.

The Soviet news agency Tass said Monday that the Ameri-

Strike Is Called Off In Saigon

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The general strike in Saigon was called off today. Labor leaders claimed a "complete victory."

Communications were restored. Electric power and water came on Monday night. Petroleum plants, tobacco factories, most dock facilities, textile factories and municipal buses were still idle but were expected to be back to normal Wednesday.

Government sources said the strikers still out had been given the rest of today as a holiday.

Premier Nguyen Khanh's government announced striking workers fired by a leading textile plant would be reinstated. The general strike of 20,000 workers Monday started in support of them but produced other, more sweeping demands.

Government negotiators apparently held the line against a labor demand for repeal of a state of emergency regulation barring strikes. Instead, the government was reported to sign a decree banning lockouts. It also offered a decree prohibiting employers from firing workers during the state of emergency.

Some labor leaders conceded the Communist Viet Cong apparently was seeking to manipulate the strikers. A number of unidentified persons not connected with the labor leaders —See 'Strike,' Pg. 10 cans fired at five ships, sinking three of them.

This seemed to come as a surprise to Washington officials, including President Johnson. He said he knew nothing about the Tass report and that newsmen had all the information the U.S. government has on this.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk told a Los Angeles news conference he would not speculate on the Russian claim.

He added that the United States "is not going to be pushed out of the Gulf of Tonkin. He said the United States will insist that the Communists of North Viet Nam and China realize that the gulf is an international body of water — not a "Communist lake."

There was speculation that the Russians might be putting out the Tass story in an effort to prod more information out of the U.S. government. Another theory was that Soviets got this data from North Viet Nam — though neither Hanoi nor Peking has put it out.

With the latest Tonkin Gulf incident now simmering down, State Department officials seem more concerned about the effort to promote government stability in Saigon which will allow effective prosecution of the war against the Viet Cong guerrillas.

A general strike of some 20,000 workers has crippled communications and public utilities in the South Vietnamese capital. —See 'Destroyers,' Pg. 10

Channel Chatter

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Appropriately enough in this highly political season, a television series about politics had its CBS network debut Monday night.

Perhaps it is the marked contrast to the endless inanities of the raft of new comedy shows or perhaps it is the welcome change from the sad personal problem series, but "Slatery's People" seems like a most attractive and intelligent addition to the schedule.

The central character, Slatery — no first name — is the minority leader of the lower house of a state legislature.

The first episode had a veteran legislator with a fine record accused of using his position as chairman of an important committee to smother a bill without a vote by his committee.

Before the hour was over, we had some idea of the workings of a state legislature, the pressures on its senators and assemblymen, all in addition to an interesting problem in political morality.

Richard Crenna, who hitherto has been seen almost entirely in rather silly comedy roles, comes on strong as a hard-headed, tough-minded idealist.

It was a well-made, thoughtful program with dramatic values.

Earlier, there was the debut of a CBS comedy, "Many Happy Returns." The series is the brainchild of Parke Levy who once gave us "December Bride." His new effort originally was called "December Groom," which is a clue of sorts.

Also on CBS Monday night, Steve Allen took over Garry Moore's old job on "I've Got a Secret." With a program that practically abandoned the long-playing show's format. This was rather welcome for a change, but the panel of four looked a little put out because it had so little to do.

Lucille Ball started her new CBS comedy season on roller skates and wound up in a fish pond, indicating that there, at least, it will be funny business as usual. Miss Ball is still the funniest female in television.

Brothers Face Sentence for $200,000 Fire

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Two brothers face sentencing in connection with a $200,000 fire at a suburban shopping center.

George Chronis, 27, of Plum Borough and Tasso Chronis, 29, of Monroeville pleaded guilty Monday in Allegheny County Criminal Court to charges of arson, felonious burning and conspiracy.

The brothers owned the Silver Spur restaurant which was destroyed in the blaze at the Eastgate Plaza Shopping Center in suburban Monroeville last Oct. 28.

Three other men, indicted on arson charges in connection with the fire, are scheduled to go on trial Wednesday.

They are Jack Greenberg, 38, of Churchill; Abe Zeid, 55, of Monroeville; and William Blume and Julius Silverman, both of Washington.

City Hall, JCC Problems Aired Before Council

JAMESTOWN, N. Y. — Two long-smoldering issues were revived last night before council—one concerning county support for Jamestown Community College and the other the problem of the city's decaying City Hall.

Council held a lengthy discussion on a resolution that city supervisors be asked to present a resolution to county supervisors seeking equal city-county support for the college. The county supervisors have refused co-sponsorship three times.

Council finally approved the resolution 7 to 5 and named a five-man committee to act as liaison between the city and county.

The public works superintendent asked immediate action on the crumbling City Hall, listing a window that fell onto the street recently, deterioration of the tower, falling cornices, slate sliding from the roof and general maintenance problems. There was no action.

Enrollment Up

FREDONIA, N. Y. — State University College officials experienced their greatest freshman student registration day in history here yesterday as approximately 900 freshmen and transfer students registered.

The day was one of two arranged by officials so that an estimated enrollment of more than 2,000 students could be handled prior to opening of classes tomorrow.

Seek More Funds

ERIE — Executive Assistant L. Wesley Martin will go before council tomorrow to discuss extra funds needed for the move into the new city hall.

He pointed out that the $30,000 moving and contingency fund asked by the administration was cut out of the 1964 budget by council.

"Now we're moved," he said, "and we don't have any money for the extra expenses."

More Students

ALBANY, N. Y. — The state education department has released figures showing a record enrollment in Chautauqua County schools this year.

The report shows a total of 38,982 students registered in the public, private and parochial schools in the county. Last year's enrollment was 37,524.

Youth Centers

MILLCREEK — The recreation commission will open youth centers by November to provide Saturday night recreation for the young and possibly similar centers in the future for the elderly.

There will be three senior high centers and two junior high centers, all open from 8 to 11 p.m.

Nash Tells Indians, No 'Empire' in View

SALAMANCA, N. Y. — Phillo Nash, U. S. commissioner of Indian affairs, has told the Seneca Nation Council that his bureau has no intention of "empire building" in this area, but will withdraw from its technical assistance role as soon as projects to be financed by the Congressional bill for the Kinzua dam project reparations and rehabilitation appear assured of success.

"CONGRESS WAS explicit in its instructions to the Bureau of Indian Affairs," he said, "not to expand its facilities at Salamanca except as specifically required to effectuate the purposes of the legislation. We in the bureau desire to be as good citizens as the Senecas. We accept the instructions of Congress. We will provide such technical assistance as the Senecas desire and require to implement the programs authorized by Congress."

"I believe," he added, "you have confidence in Sidney Carney. He will remain at Salamanca until arrangements have been made for an organization of the Seneca people under the laws of New York State which will be capable of developing and carrying out the full program authorized by Congress."

CONGRESS, NASH said, concluded that the program made possible through the $12.1 million in indirect damages for Kinzua project land taking offers so much hope of economic self sufficiency and self determination that all should look forward to an end of the special federal-tribal relationship.

"Accordingly," he stated, "the Congress directed the Secretary of the Interior in consultation with the Seneca Nation to submit plans within a period of three years from the passage of the act looking toward an eventual withdrawal of federal services and supervision over Seneca affairs.

"THE GOALS of the Seneca people are the same as the goals of Indian people everywhere, the highest attainable levels of income, education, employment and health. To reach these goals the Indian communities across the country need to end their social and economic isolation; they need to increase their economic self-sufficiency; they need to upgrade their basic community services."

"We know from experience that mutual readiness and understanding between the federal government, the states and tribes is essential. The views of the Senecas and the experience of the bureau will both be embodied, you can be sure, in the recommendations the Secretary of the Interior must make to Congress as called for by HR 1794."

Today in Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats in the Senate have made it possible for Sen. Strom Thurmond to retain two committee seats despite his decision to switch to the Republican party.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield announced Monday that ratios were being switched from 12-5 to 11-6 on the Armed Services and Commerce committees.

Police Arrest Driver on License Rap

A Warren man, who sometime back led police on a wild chase through the borough as he drove at high speed with his car lights off, was arrested this morning at Allegheny and Pine St.

Police said that Jerry L. Salsgiver, 25, of 281½ Pine St., was arrested at 12:30 a.m. and charged with operating a motor vehicle during a period of suspension.

When arraigned before Police Justice Martha Lawson, Salsgiver pleaded guilty and was released on $250 cash bail.

People in the News

NEW YORK (AP) — Comedian Mort Sahl is in New York's Columbia Presbyterian Hospital for treatment of a back injury.

A hospital spokesman said today Sahl's condition was good, but that he would remain in the hospital for several weeks. Sahl was admitted Sunday night after he fainted while riding in a taxicab and injured four vertebrae, the spokesman said. Doctors said the comedian suffered from extreme fatigue.

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) — Capt. Ronald John Robertson, who commanded the Australian aircraft carrier Melbourne when it collided with a destroyer last Feb. 10, has resigned from the navy.

The destroyer, Voyager, sank with the loss of 82 lives. Primary blame for the collision off New South Wales was placed on the destroyer.

Robertson reportedly resigned to protest his transfer to a shore station. Navy Minister Frederick Chaney announced to the House of Representatives today that the resignation had been accepted.

Hollywood Reporting

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "When you get to be 30, you begin to realize that you only live once. Then you must start to make the most of your life."

Leslie Caron was back in Hollywood where she had first fame at 18 as Gene Kelly's dancing partner in the Oscar-winning "An American in Paris." Always a thoughtful girl, she is more reflective at 33, more conscious of the direction she wants her career to follow.

The career is going fine. Once counted out as a star in Hollywood, she has returned to co-star in films with Cary Grant and Rock Hudson. That's as high-powered company as any actress could wish.

She was seated in her dressing-room trailer on the set of "The Favor" and doing a scene with Hudson. The actor was not present. He was a hundred feet away in a hotel-room set, talking to her on the telephone. Usually telephone scenes are played with dead phones, but Leslie supplied the dialogue on the other end as an assist to Rock.

Between calls she spoke of her new post-30 life.

"It all started with 'The L-Shaped Room,'" said Leslie, who received an academy nomination and critical acclaim for playing the unwed mother in the British film. "It is amazing how much difference one film can make."

"Now producers think I can do anything. I have been offered a movie in which I would play three different roles of women in India. Another would cast me as the mother of Utrillo — at a time when the artist was 21 years old!"

She has indeed progressed from the shy gamine who used to take ballet lessons in the basement of the garden court apartments on Hollywood Boulevard. She enjoyed these MGM days, especially the making of films like "Lili" and "Gigi." But she was not unhappy to give up ballet.

Dear Abby . . .

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My name is Dickie and I am ten years old. I went to Montana to visit my aunt and uncle for two weeks this summer and I had a very good time. They own a ranch and they let me ride a horse. They don't have any kids of their own and they let me do just about anything I wanted to do. When I got home, my mother said I had to write them a bread-and-butter letter. This is a letter saying thanks for the good time. Well, I started about 100 of these bread-and-butter letters and they all ended up sounding so stupid I tore them up and called them long distance on the telephone and told them thanks again for the neat time. The call came to be $6.70. I didn't think it would cost that much but that is what it came to on the telephone bill. I want to draw $6.70 out of my savings account but my mother won't let me. She says that was no bread-and-butter letter and I have to write one anyway. Do you think this is fair?

DICKIE
DEAR DICKIE: Your mother is trying to teach you something that everyone should know. It is necessary to write a bread-and-butter letter after you've been a guest. Your short-cut showed refreshing (if extravagant) ingenuity, but it did not do the job of a "bread and butter" letter. Mind your mother, Dickie.

DEAR ABBY: My husband came home from a convention with LIPSTICK on his cigar holder! How about that?

JEALOUS
DEAR JEALOUS: You have nothing to worry about. A chronic Casanova would have removed the evidence.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I just had the biggest fight of the year. We have two children, one and two, and I am expecting again. My husband wants to move to the country to a two-room house. It isn't even a modern house and you have to carry water a full block. The closest neighbor is 15 miles away and the store is 35 miles away. We have only one car, which he takes to work. There is no phone in the house and he says he isn't putting one in. (What if one of the children needs a doctor?) He says we will have no TV and not even a radio as I will have plenty to keep me busy. He says I'll have to make a vegetable garden so we can have fresh vegetables. His reason for all this is that I have too many friends. Abby, I have only one friend and she lives in my block. I visit her maybe an hour three times a week as she is an invalid. And I always take both children with me. My husband lets me go to the store only once a week and as soon as I get home he asks me who I talked to, what they looked like and what we said. His mother says I am his wife and it is my duty to live where he wants me to. Can you help me?

TRAPPED
DEAR TRAPPED: If your explanation of your husband's reasons for a move to the country is accurate, your hubby is a candidate for the couch. YOU don't need help—HE does! So help me.

DEAR ABBY: My 20-year-old daughter is an exceptionally pretty girl. She has always been very popular and I never worried about her. We are very close. Lately she has been asking me questions that have led me to believe that she is far more advanced in her experiences with boys (one in particular) than she should be. I wish she would be 100% frank with me so that I could warn her of some of the things girls should be careful of. Yet I don't want her to think I am giving my approval to anything that is wrong. I hope I am making sense, Abby. I guess what I want to ask is this: Is it wrong for a mother to tell her daughter everything she thinks the girl ought to know in case she needs the information?

A MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: If the mother thinks her daughter "ought to know"—it is wrong NOT to tell her.

Disaster Workshop Slated by Red Cross Here Nov. 7

Warren County Chapter of the American Red Cross will play host to nine chapters of Northwestern Pennsylvania at a disaster workshop on Saturday, Nov. 7.

APPROVAL of the project was voted at the quarterly meeting of the board of directors of the Red Cross Monday afternoon. Col. Henry C. Kerlin, disaster chairman of Warren County Chapter, will supervise local details, working with William P.

McKinley, consultant for disaster of the Association for Northwestern Penna.

Other business before the directors at the September meeting was largely routine. Reports were received from Paul Harrington, treasurer; Mrs. Katharine Bell, home service; Howard Lauffenberger, blood program; Col. Kerlin, disaster; Eugene Brown, first aid; Mrs. Raymond Steber, volunteer groups; Mrs. T. L. Armstrong, camp and hospital; W. P. Lombard, public information.

BROWN spoke in regard to plans for new first aid classes and growing interest by members of several volunteer fire departments in such information.

Lauffenberger expressed hope for an increase in the turnout of blood donors at the next visit of the Bloodmobile. Although blood collections have slumped off during the summer months, the fine showing of Warren County Chapter in the overall blood program was disclosed in the annual report by the Buffalo Regional Center.

MRS. STEBER and Lombard reported on the meeting of Northwest Chapters held at Tionesta in August.

Resignation of William Zinck as a member of the board was received and accepted. Zinck, a former member of the Beaty Junior High School faculty, has left the city, necessitating a shift in the directing personnel of the Junior Red Cross at that school and Warren Area High School.

MRS. KATHARINE Bell resigned as secretary of the chapter and will be succeeded by Mrs. E. G. Hamilton, who has served in that post for several years. Mrs. Bell will continue as executive secretary.

Members of the board were invited to attend the next dinner-meeting of the Chapters of Northwestern Pennsylvania to be held at Lake City on Oct. 8. Three new directors — James Marshall, Robert Phillips and John Brown — were welcomed to their first meeting.

I LOVE THAT

12 VIP's Are Held on Liquor Charges

DARIEN, Conn. (AP)—Three corporation executives, a psychiatrist and a teacher are among 12 persons charged with serving liquor to minors at dinner and debauche parties in two Darien homes.

The arrests Monday drew wide attention throughout Fairfield County, one of New York City's most fashionable suburban areas.

The charge is based on a 1933 Connecticut law that prohibits the serving of liquor to anyone under 21, except by his parents. No one could recall it being invoked before.

The minimum age for buying liquor in Connecticut is 21. In New York state, just a few miles from here, it is 18.

The statute was invoked by Circuit Court Judge Rodney S. Eielson, presiding at the trial of Michael Smith, 18, who pleaded innocent to charges of reckless driving and negligent homicide in the death of Nancy Hitchings, 17, last June 23.

The two were in a car that crashed shortly after the parties. Smith's trial has been continued until Sept. 30.

One of those arrested was Carlton Josselyn of Westport, a science teacher in Fairfield Public School who was a bartender at one of the parties.

His lawyer, Louis Stein, said: "There were four Darien policemen at the party. They saw everything that went on, including the drinking. I have asked that they be arrested as accessories after the fact."

Police often stand by at larger house parties to control traffic on the narrow roads and prevent party crashing.

The parties were held June 22 at the homes of F. E. Dutcher, 54, a vice president of the Johns-Manville Corp., and Dr. George S. Hughes, a psychiatrist.

Hughes, his wife, Julia Ann, and Dutcher were among the 12 who appeared at the police station for booking.

Others booked included two couples described as co-hosts at the Hughes party, William F. Otterstrom, 55, and his wife, Lucille, 54, of Darien, and Dudley Felt, 60, and his wife, Marguerite, of Norwalk.

Otterstrom is general auditor of the Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp. Felt is an executive with the New York City advertising firm of Cunningham & Walsh.

The others booked were bartenders and caterers.

Humphrey Bares His Assets; Total Worth Only $171,396

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey has made public his assets down to the dollar and turns out to be last — or first, depending on how you look at it — in the presidential and vice presidential financial derby.

The Johnson, Goldwater and Miller returns already were in when the Minneapolis accounting firm of Touche, Ross, Bailey & Smart reported Monday that Humphrey and his wife have total assets of $171,396.

This is within striking distance of the $260,730.57 in net assets credited to Republican vice presidential candidate William E. Miller and his wife. But it's a long way distant from the $1.7 million in net assets GOP presidential nominee Barry Goldwater listed for himself and his wife and the $3,484,098 an auditors' statement credited to President and Mrs. Johnson.

A shower of criticism greeted the Johnson figure when it was made public last month because the assets were on a cost basis

— perhaps one-third or less of present market value. Some estimates on the Johnsons' worth ranged up to $14 million. Humphrey's report, on the other hand, was made on the basis of present market value — a "basis of reporting we believe to be appropriate in the circumstances," the accountants said in a statement.

To arrive at the final figure of $171,396, liabilities of $19,887 were subtracted from total assets of $191,283.

The liabilities included an $8,887 mortgage on a home in Waverly, Minn., and household bills totaling $1,000.

Among the assets were $20,140 in the U.S. Civil Service retirement fund, government notes and bonds of $45,913, stocks and bonds worth $40,389 and $7,341 in cash in banks.

Real estate in Chevy Chase, Md., and in Waverly was listed at a total market value of $64,000.

A registered pharmacist, Humphrey has a $3,900 stock interest in the family pharmacy in Huron, S.D.

Before the report was released, the Democratic vice presidential nominee predicted it would show he is eligible neither for aid from the poverty program nor for membership in the millionaires' club. But, he said then, "There'll be enough there to take care of Mother."

Goldwater Says Ike Plans TV Appearances for GOP

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Republican presidential nominee Barry Goldwater says former President Dwight D. Eisenhower may make several nationwide television appearances in support of the GOP ticket.

Goldwater made the announcement Monday after meeting with Eisenhower at his farm here to tape a half-hour show (for NBC) scheduled for broadcast tonight as a paid political telecast.

"I expect him to do several of these TV shows, it's just a question of when," Goldwater said before returning to Washington to prepare for a campaign speech at Charlotte, N.C., Monday night.

Brig. Gen. Robert Shulz, an aide to Eisenhower, said, however, he knew of no plans for future television shows involving the former president.

"Any plans along this line would have to come from the Republican National Committee," Shulz said.

Goldwater said the purpose of tonight's program is to "give the public a true position of the Republican candidates and the former president a chance to comment on the campaign."

When asked if the program represents an effort to show that he and Eisenhower are in agreement on all issues, Goldwater replied: "not necessarily."

Goldwater and Eisenhower spent six hours together in the friendly setting of the former president's farm here.

Paul Wagner, Goldwater's press secretary, said the discussion centered around "the main issues of the campaign—national defense, economy, government, public morality and law and order."

At an impromptu news conference at the airport, Goldwater, looking tanned and fit, said he expects Eisenhower to do "quite a bit of campaigning" for him.

The former president already is scheduled for appearances in Chicago and Oklahoma City.

"His other campaign plans are entirely up to him, when he can do it," the senator added.

Goldwater flew to Gettysburg from Washington Monday morning, landing at the Doersom Airport, some five miles from the Eisenhower farm. The nominee was accompanied by five or six members of his staff.

Before getting down to business, Eisenhower gave Goldwater a tour of his farm, showing him the barnyard and several dozen of prize black angus cattle.

As for the campaign, Goldwater said he was pleased.

"We're still underdogs," he said, "but that's normal when the Democrats have the majority. We'll be upper dogs before long."

A Barbaric Campaign

NOT SINCE the days of Grover Cleveland has America seen a political campaign which bids to become as nasty as this one.

Grover Cleveland was not the first nor, in all probability, the last political candidate to be slandered during a campaign. Abraham Lincoln certainly was not viewed by the contemporary press as any sort of a saint, and he got his lumps regularly from the cartoonists and editorial writers of his time.

The same pattern of distortion and ugly innuendo is developing in the current contest between President Johnson and Sen. Goldwater.

Both have been victims of some rather unfair attacks, and both have to bear the blame for a few things which seem to us to be outside the bounds of good taste.

The vicious attacks of certain cartoonists on Goldwater already have overstepped the bounds of decency. In the vanguard of this pack of jackals is Herbert Block of the Washington Post, who hates Sen. Goldwater with a consuming passion and whose talented pen—for one cannot get around his talent, no matter how distorted its aims—already has covered the Senator with mud.

On the other hand, certain groups backing Goldwater have been responsible for vicious attacks on President Johnson. Books like "None Dare Call It Treason" and "A Texan Looks at Johnson" are as vicious as they are untrue.

In both of these cases, the candidates cannot be held directly responsible for these attacks. Mr. Johnson does not set Washington Post editorial policy, and Sen. Goldwater is in no way involved in the publication of the two books cited, or of the other hate literature which some of his backers have produced.

However, the official advertising of either party can be put to the account of the candidates, and it is on this score that we are most concerned.

Let it be understood that we hold no brief for Sen. Goldwater, but we do believe that the current crop of TV commercials whipped up by the advertising agency hired by the Democratic National Committee is beyond the bounds of good taste and fair play.

The ones we've witnessed so far follow this pattern:

We begin with some pictures of a child—usually an appealing little girl—engaged in some innocent occupation like pulling the petals off a flower. Then we have a shot of an atomic explosion. The message: We have a choice between Johnson and nuclear war.

We don't feel that Goldwater's public statements in any way give the Democrats the right to infer that the Arizona Senator is in favor of plunging the world into an atomic disaster.

A cynical Frenchman once said that America is the only nation to pass from barbarism to decadence without going through a period of civilization. Perhaps he is right—except that the overtones of the current campaign so far seem to indicate that we have not left barbarism entirely behind us.

We're interested: Are we running this campaign on the basis of issues or emotionalism?

Still a Wasteland

NEWTON MINNOW of the Federal Communications Commission once attacked the television industry as "a vast cultural wasteland." Well, that caused a nine-day sensation and then, like everything else, was absorbed into the sponge-like consciousness of TV, and forgotten.

The current crop of new series shows, it would appear to us, is a flat failure. What is even worse are the commercials.

We wonder how it is that ad agencies that can turn out reasonable ads for the printed page, can at the same time produce such drivel. It's a form of doublethink which the world can do without.

Another point which is annoying is the over-commercialization of American shows. You get the most absorbing drama, the most interesting documentary in bits and pieces, chopped up by boring commercials. Mr. Minnow's wasteland is still with us—even more than Mr. Elliot's.

Editorial Viewpoints Of Other Leading Area Newspapers

This is not because the men who comprise the Supreme Court are necessarily the wisest men in the land. It is simply because somewhere in government there must be a final authority—second only to the people.

Ever since Chief Justice Marshall ruled an act of Congress unconstitutional during Jefferson's first administration, successive generations have generally accepted the Supreme Court as that authority.

There are two ways in which a decision of the court may be nullified—by a reversal of the decision by the court itself at a later time or by constitutional amendment.

The court may also be ignored, but only for so long. Few would call the Supreme Court infallible. Some believe its thinking should be ever so slightly behind the times, to act as a conservative brake on impulsive lawmakers. Others believe it should lead, as it seems to be doing today.

In its history, it has been both laggard and precipitate in relations to the popular consensus on subjects such as states' and civil rights, censorship, religion, social welfare.

Nor is there anything magical in the number nine, the number of Supreme Court justices. It might have been five or 15 or any odd number. Custom has long placed the number at nine.

But when Franklin D. Roosevelt sought in the 1930s to enlarge the court, which had declared one New Deal reform after another unconstitutional—to "pack" it, according to his opponents, with more liberal judges—he was widely criticized for tampering with a fundamental institution of the republic.

He sought to change not a law but the "attitude" of the court by a constitutional amendment.

Eventually, normal death and retirement enabled Roosevelt to appoint enough new judges for the court to reverse itself.

Oddly enough, some of the same lawmakers who were appalled by Roosevelt's impatience with the court today are attempting an end run around it in the matter of state legislative reapportionment. They want Congress to declare and establish by congressional fiat that this is an area the court must shun.

Such an act would be effective—constitutional—only if the Supreme Court chose to accept this limitation. Clearly the men on the supreme bench today would not.

The court's decisions on state reapportionment, particularly the latest one outlawing regional representation on the pattern of the U.S. Senate, are of vast import to the whole state-federal structure of the country.

As in Roosevelt's day, it is again not a specific law but the "attitude" of the court toward a fundamental issue that is involved.

The matter is not something for state lawmakers to ignore, whether they sincerely believe the court has overstepped its authority or whether they are merely afraid of losing their seats.

It is not something than an angry Congress can settle by telling 160 years of custom to go away.

—Ridgway Record

Drew Pearson: Washington Merry-Go-Round

Miller's Shady Dealings

WASHINGTON—No one has sounded off against corruption with more righteous wrath than has Congressman William Miller, the Republican Vice Presidential nominee. He has also joined 30 Fellow House Republicans in demanding a probe of House irregularities.

Though he probably had other miscreants in mind, he could start the crack-down by submitting his own activities for investigation. This column would be delighted to suggest witnesses who should testify and documents that should be subpoenaed.

Miller might start off by explaining his part-time function as a director of the Lockport Felt Company. What part did he play, for example, in setting the company's pricing policies, which have now become involved in Federal price-fixing charges?

Miller has also been accused for seeking Mississippi ex-Congressman Frank Smith's vote on a public power bill by indirectly offering him a public relations retainer. He allegedly approached Smith on the House floor and asked whether the Mississippian would be interested in a public relations account paying $350 to $500 monthly.

Miller denied the incident after it was first reported in this column, but Smith confirmed it to reporters in detail.

Another subject for inquiry might be Miller's curious connections with the juke-box interests. Before his nomination, he pulled strings in Congress to help the juke-box manufacturers block a bill that would have required them to pay royalties to composers.

The telephone records will show that Miller was in frequent contact with A. D. Palmer, a public relations man for Wurlitzer. The financial records will also show that Miller has received several campaign contributions from Fanny Wurlitzer, the grand old man of the juke box business, whose family founded Wurlitzer.

An investigation also should be made into the sale of the Allie Brandy Bowling Lanes, a Lockport, N. Y., alley, which Miller and five friends built during the bowling boom. The sale was completed in 1962, after the boom had started to fizzle and business slowed down at the alley.

Yet the Vice Presidential nominee was able to claim a $50,000 capital gain for his one-sixth share. The purchaser: Consolidated Bowling, whose president, Jack E. Gellerman, used to be Miller's assistant district attorney. Gellerman is now a promoter with problems in Washington.

Anthony Parone, attorney for Consolidated Bowling, acknowledged to this column that business had dropped off when Consolidated purchased the Lockport alley. But he said "other financial considerations," involving tax advantages, had made the deal attractive.

The tax reference raises another interesting question. Miller was paid $67,833 for his share: $17,833 in cash and a note for $50,000. However, he paid taxes only on the cash until Internal Revenue agents investigated and demanded taxes on the full purchase price.

Indeed, the Democrats may now back Miller's demands for an investigation of House improprieties, provided that it begins with Miller.

No group has been more energetic in promoting new markets abroad than the Soybean Council, which represents private soybean dealers but is permitted to draw U.S.-owned currencies from our embassies around the world to plug soybeans.

The taxpayers help pay for this promotion on the theory that it not only helps the soybean industry but the American economy as well.

House investigators have discovered, however, that the Council's president, Howard Roach, has been promoting himself almost as energetically as soybeans.

He hasn't spared the taxpayer's money to produce what he likes to call a favorable "image" abroad. However, it was his own image that was engraved on 250 silver key chains distributed at the taxpayers' expense.

These were handed out as souvenirs by the Soybean Council supposedly to promote soybeans. Cost to the taxpayers: about $3 apiece.

Roach's image also is preserved in oils on a wall of the Council's ornate Paris office. The $300 which the painting cost the taxpayers was finally refunded to the Agriculture Department after investigators raised Cain about it.

Another painting costing $362 was counted as legitimate expense, since it contained scenery other than Roach's features. But the Agriculture Department decided the soybean promoters were carrying culture too far when they paid $800 to have a mural, titled "Nile Boats," calimined on the wall of their Copenhagen office.

Uncle Sam sternly demanded that $700 of its cost be refunded.

A confidential House report also accuses Roach of sending a personal friend, Earl M. Hughes, to Europe at the taxpayers' expense. This column has obtained a copy of the report which charges that "at least $2,405 in the Agriculture Department's funds were improperly used to provide a trip for a fellow farmer and friend of the Soybean Council's president."

The report adds that Hughes took his wife along on the trip and turned in a report of little value.

However, the Agriculture Department takes issue with the accusation, pointing out that Hughes holds a Ph.D. degree in agriculture economics.

The Department felt that the Soybean Council was fortunate in getting a man of Dr. Hughes' calibre to take on this assignment," states the confidential reply.

Other Comments...

The United States Supreme Court is, as its name indicates, the top judicial body in the nation.

As final arbiter of federal laws it has also become in a sense, the supreme legislative body in the nation.

With a veto on the constitutionality of federal laws and state laws touching constitutional questions, it has acquired a measure of executive supremacy.

John Chamberlain: These Days

Itchy Fingers and November

The question of itchy fingers is a major preoccupation with the politicians this autumn. Goldwater is accused of having an "irresponsible" trigger finger because he advocates giving the NATO commander authority to use tactical atomic weapons without consulting the President in the event that the Russians pull a surprise nuclear infantry and tank attack on West Germany. Goldwater is, of course, merely supporting what military men insist is a necessity if they hope to save their troops from almost instant obliteration. The military men—LeMay, Lemnitzer, Gen. Thomas S. Power—could speak out on this, but they would have first to be unmuzzled. And someone might, of course, ask Ike Eisenhower, who might have felt encumbered if he had had to get on the phone to Washington to discuss the weather over the English Channel on the morning of D-Day.

Commensurate—which, I suppose, is as rare a commodity as there is—should tell the American voter that Goldwater is a responsible spokesman for trained military men when it comes to advocating that the NATO commander should have the authority to reply instantly in kind to a tactical nuclear attack. A soldier deprived for a critical period of the right of self-defense with the same weapon the enemy is using cannot possibly sustain his morale if, by chance, he is left alive to fire back after an inevitable time-consuming call by his commander to Washington or Texas.

So much, then, for one imputation of itchy fingers. If the allegation of trigger-happiness in this business of NATO defense is a phony, however, there is another charge of itchy fingers that can be sustained. And that is the charge of itchy fingers on the monetary spigot.

Suddenly, in the effort to attract votes, the cry in the higher echelons of the "in" party is to call for turning on every spigot possible. Representative John Dingell returns to Washington after a close victory in a Michigan Democratic primary with the news that a few old-age pensioners saved him from the so-called backlash. So the orders have gone out to whip up enthusiasm for Medicare attached to social security. It does not matter that young married couples in their twenties, living on $5,000 a year, cannot possibly maintain private insurance if the social security bite is upped to pay for the federal hospitalization of anybody and everybody in the 65-year-old brackets whether they have John D. Rockefeller resources or merely the income of a John Doe. It does not matter that the Kerr-Mills Act is already on the books to provide hospitalization for those who are truly in need.

The cry is out, too, to vote for partisans of the theory that the federal government must provide mass transit for our big cities, to pump in money for education, and to clear more downtown areas for resale at a favored price to redevelopers. Governor Pat Brown of California has written an article for Harper's Magazine asking for "massive" federal aid to the states; Bobby Kennedy in New York City has implied that he will, if elected to the Senate, make New York City's traffic needs a federal concern.

Now, if one thing is plain, it is that when tax money is pumped from the states to Washington and then back again via federal bureaus, the bureaucrats take a hefty "living expense" cut from it. How much simpler it would be to let the states collect their own excise taxes. Or how much simpler it would be to accept Barry Goldwater's proposal for a federal remission of a fair proportion of taxes to the states to use as local citizens see fit.

The states are quite capable of taking care of their own needs if they have funds and local incentive to do it. One currently popular federal idea is that Washington should supply money to erase scars caused by strip mining. But in Indiana, for example, where taxes are levied on nominally worthless stripped-out coal areas, the owners of the land, to put value back into their taxed real estate, have reclaimed all save 3,621 acres out of a total of 80,000. Every coal state could do what Indiana has done. But not if election-hungry politicians get their itchy fingers on the federal spigot.

Eddie Fischer's New Romance

NO ONE WILL BET THAT IT WILL LAST for more than half an hour, but the most talked-about "romance" in Las Vegas stars Eddie Fisher and the English singer Shani Wallis. Out there it looks like real love because he lets her use his brand new custom-built Bentley...Opera star Richard Tucker is hurling a $1,520,000 lawsuit against the Eden Roc Hotel in Miami Beach. He charges he was booked for two singing engagements, but the hotel cancelled his second performance allegedly implying he "laid a bomb" the first time...Universal pulled a real coup by booking their two big pictures of the year — "Send Me No Flowers" and "Father Goose" — to run in succession at Radio City Music Hall during the Thanksgiving and Christmas periods. Rival companies are still puzzling over that one.

Natalie Wood is reported to be dating Laurence Harvey in England. Should be lots of laughs and quite a change of pace, but there goes her chance to be in any Columbia Pictures... The Hollywood Pavilion at the World's Fair is operating on a week-to-week basis...Nightclub comedians who have been using the political situation for laughs have been encountering a peculiar reaction in many spots. Some discovered that kidding Goldwater—using him as the butt of quips and satirical lines — is backfiring. Audiences normally amused are now rated "hypersensitive" and even "potentially dangerous." Some comics make spot checks of the room before going on, just to make sure they won't be facing fistfights.

IF YOU DON'T THINK the citizens are sensitive, scan this missive from Mrs. Trudy Mullins of 11 Gifford Ave., Jersey City:

"Dear Miss Kilgallen: I was most annoyed and so were my friends and I wrote to my senator regarding the beauty pageant held at Republican stronghold Atlantic City. I believe the judges and directors who mostly are from Atlantic City, the directors anyway, awarded the crown to Miss Arizona who injected political capitalizing on this one. Seven out of 10 people were looking at the pageant and it was a good time to plug their candidate, which she did both on the talent program and after, when she endorsed Mr. G. I always believed the contest was on the level but this one won't convince me that it was.

"The Republicans will manage to get their publicity even at the dismay of many viewers who like myself object to these political overtones.

Personally I don't think even Miss America can help Barry but the principle of the thing was most offending. I hope you write it up in your column because even in the beginning of the contest when she was the fourth to appear in street attire she was so applauded that I said to my friends, "There is your next Miss America," attributing the fact that we were in Atlantic City during the convention.

They tried to capitalize on the riots which your paper so wonderfully put everyone straight as to how they were planned by a well-organized group. I think Mr. Hearst is wonderful and I enjoyed reading his editorial criticizing Mr. G. and his views.

"Best of luck to all at the N.Y.C.

Very truly yours,
Mrs. Trudy Mullins

DEAR MRS. MULLINS: I deleted one paragraph of your letter only because it was derogatory to one of my colleagues, and you can understand that I would not wish to hurt the feelings of another columnist who has as much right to his opinions as you and I do.

I am glad that you wrote to your senator on this subject, and I would be grateful if you would send me a copy of his reply, because I confess I am confused. I didn't know Atlantic City was a Republican stronghold. The last time I looked at a convention on television it seemed to be a Democratic stronghold. I saw most of the Miss America Pageant and I have the feeling that Miss Arizona received a lot of applause because she was very beautiful and had a lively, appealing personality. Of course, Miss Texas did well in the contest, too; would you say she was representing the LBJ forces in the next elections?

There were many business personalities rooting for LBJ at the Democratic Convention. There will be many motion picture and stage stars campaigning for President Johnson. Would you deny Miss America to express her approval of Sen. Goldwater and allow Frank Sinatra, Shelley Winters, Carol Channing and any number of giant names in the entertainment business to lend their weight to President Johnson? I don't believe you would.

Think it over, and thank you for writing.

Keeping Well...

Mrs. R. H. writes: "Age has brought me freedom. Now at 72, I don't have to apply garish looking cosmetics to my face or have my hair tinted. I can wear wedgies instead of high heels, even to the opera. I can walk my dog wearing a man's coonskin coat. I don't have to entertain elaborately, which frees me from the chore of cleaning the silver and crystal. I don't have to try to impress anybody. Yes—old age is freedom."

I believe oldersters should be allowed to live the way they want to so long as they are not harming themselves or others. We all have our mild eccentricities and when we leave the competitive life, why not indulge them?

Mrs. E. M. writes: "When I read your article on pre-birth cries, I had to write you. Four years ago, when I was 8½ months pregnant with my son, just as I got into bed one night and pulled up the covers, I heard my baby cry. I sat up, terrified, and I heard it again, clearly and distinctly. The next morning I called my doctor, who said it was impossible. My family and friends would not believe me. To this day, no one can tell me that baby didn't cry. Before reading your article, I never had heard anyone say they heard an unborn baby cry so I didn't pursue it. Thank you for relieving my mind."

Most physicians are of the opinion that an unborn child cannot cry unless there is air in the lungs. No air, no vibration of the vocal cords, no cry. On the other hand, many sounds originate in the abdomen, mainly from the gastrointestinal tract. Some of these noises could be mistaken for the cry of a baby.

We suspect some readers of pulling our leg. After the appearance of an article headed "Don't Abuse the Nose," a Wilmington, O., man wrote:

"I have been playing the piano with my nose for several years, with no ill effect as yet. I don't use my nose all the time — just for certain numbers, such as the Sheik of Araby. At present I'm working on one of Liszt's Hungarian Rhapsodies. I believe you are right about congestion, especially in the more difficult compositions. I also teach nasal playing to my young students. They love it."

PEOPLE, ISSUES and POLITICS

HARRISBURG — A sort of Golden Rule in reverse prevails in the rough and tumble of Pennsylvania politics. In the collision of Republicans and Democrats, the rule can be roughly paraphrased to read: "Do unto the opposition what they will unto us when they get the chance."

Nowhere does this rule have more impact than in the Pennsylvania Legislature on the laying out of boundary lines for the legislative and congressional districts. The majority party makes it as rough as possible for the opposition to elect state representatives, state senators and U. S. congressmen. Pennsylvania's politicians don't have to take a back-seat to anybody when it comes to the old-fashioned art of gerrymandering—the putting together of districts of such political complexion that it takes an election upheaval for the minority out to become the majority ins, controlling the Legislature.

The Democrats have been screaming political bloody murder that they were done in by the Scranton Administration's legislative reapportionment act this year.

Now it's the Republicans' turn for political nausea. One highly placed Pennsylvania Republican summed it up this way: "If these polls are only half right on how badly Goldwater will lose in Pennsylvania, we'll probably lose control of the (State) House of Representatives."

This would be a political catastrophe for Governor Scranton in the last two years of his Administration. More than this, it would flag a major legislative realignment to come, heading into the 1966 election.

The odds are just about 99 to 1 that the new Legislature will have to take up reapportionment as one of its first orders of business. Even with any delay, it will have to set its house in order for the election the next time around.

And not just for itself, but for the congressional districts, too. This has been largely overlooked in the hullabaloo which has been going on at Washington over the Supreme Court decisions on legislative reapportionment. The high Court laid down the "one person, one vote" dictum on congressional districts before the ruling on state legislatures. And some of Pennsylvania's congressional districts just don't measure up. The toss-up reapportionment during the Lawrence Administration, which cut the State's congressmen from 30 to 27 in line with the 1960 census, will have to be done over again.

Nobody can be sure exactly what will happen on the legislative realignment. Congress is caught up in the controversy. Pennsylvania's case still is hanging fire in both the U. S. and State Supreme Courts. To second-guess the courts in this confused and complex situation would be foolhardy, but it is considered likely that nothing will happen to throw out the election of the new Legislature on Nov. 3 or its formal organization and legislative operation after that. The earliest Pennsylvania case can come up in the high Court at Washington is next month, when arguments will have to be scheduled. (Little noticed, the Court refused an AFL-CIO petition to send the Pennsylvania case back to the U. S. District Court for implementation of its ruling after the "one person, one vote" decision came down this summer.)

It's also possible — but considered unlikely — that the State Supreme Court will act first. Another legislative reapportionment challenge is before this Court and, when it reconvenes next month, it could — if it wants to — order the Legislature to redistrict itself along the population guidelines laid down by the U. S. Supreme Court for both House and Senate.

When the redistricting finally comes, it won't be a tremendous upheaval involving the cities versus the country. Pennsylvania doesn't have the lopsided legislative alignments, so stacked in favor of the rural areas, which is the case in many other states. If Pennsylvania were to redistrict today on strict population lines, there would be only one big city change — Philadelphia would gain one state senator (from eight to nine). The total of legislators in Pittsburgh wouldn't change at all.

The big upheaval will come in the disregarding of counties as separate legislative-congressional district units. With its population guidelines, the Supreme Court has said, in effect, that the late Congressman William Green, of Philadelphia, was right. Remember the "Green's Grab" furore of several years back? He argued that county lines should be broken and proposed adding parts of suburban counties onto a Philadelphia district so Pennsylvania's largest city wouldn't lose a congressman.

When it comes to legislative districts, it won't be just a case of smaller counties, each now guaranteed one state representative, being bunched together in one new district. It also will be a story of county lines being crossed to even out the populations of various districts. Otherwise, it would be impossible to comply with the "one person, one vote" guideline for either House, or Senate, or both.

The potential for gerrymandering mischief with this kind of boundary line leeway will exceed anything that already has come to pass. The Supreme Court can set right situations of under or over-representation. But no court order can end the ancient practice of gerrymandering, of drawing up a district in which the Republicans are so overwhelmed by Democrats, or vice versa, that it takes an election upheaval for the minority party candidate to win. So long as no civil rights issue is involved — of districts drawn up, for example, to break up the political power of Negro areas — Pennsylvania's Legislature still will be free to gerrymander to its political heart's content.

So it's little wonder that both parties are paying so much attention to the legislative campaigns this time. And it's no wonder that the Republicans are so deeply concerned with what will happen to their candidates for the Legislature if the polls which show Goldwater trailing so badly in Pennsylvania turn out to be right.

Two Landmarks Join Park System

[EDITOR'S NOTE: Under a recently enacted law, two historic landmarks in the Johnstown area are going to incorporate in the national park system. This AP spotlight tells why they're famous.]

By DON MATTHEWS JR.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Two of the Johnstown area's most famous historic landmarks will achieve recognition as units of the national park system as the result of a bill signed into law by President Johnson.

Under the legislation, initiated by Rep. John P. Saylor, Johnstown Republican, the Allegheny Portage Railroad National Historic Site and the Johnstown Flood National Memorial will be established under the National Park Service of the U.S. Department of the Interior.

The National Park Service is authorized to purchase and develop up to 950 acres along the long-abandoned railroad in Cambria and Blair counties and 44 acres at the site of the South Fork Dam.

The two units will be administered as one and will be the fifth location in Pennsylvania to be shown on national park service maps.

Sites to be purchased along the railroad right-of-way include portions of the Pennsylvania Canal, five inclined plane sites and skew arch bridge in Blair County, and Lemon House and the Staple Bend Tunnel, first railroad tunnel in the United States, in Cambria County.

The land at the breast of the South Fork Dam, which burst May 31, 1889, causing the Johnstown Flood, is in Cambria County.

Land acquisition is expected to cost $250,000. Development costs spread over a period of several years, have been pegged at $1.7 million. Estimated annual cost of providing administrative and maintenance staffs is $75,000.

The Allegheny Portage Railroad was constructed in 1831-34 as part of the 39½-mile Pennsylvania Canal. Its function was to provide a way of lifting barge traffic on the canal over the Allegheny Mountain. The 36-mile railroad connected Hollidaysburg and Johnstown. The canal was built 1826 and 1834.

Rep. Saylor notes that the railroad included an "ingenious system of inclines, five on each side of the summit, which represented the most difficult engineering accomplishment in the canal building era of the United States."

A distinguished English engineer of that period — Edward Stephenson — in 1938 said the Portage Railroad was an engineering accomplishment and feat favorable with those in Simplon Pass and Mount Cenis in Europe.

Areas where a number of the inclined planes were situated are distinguishable today and the Skew Arch Bridge is standing. Lemon House, the midway point at the summit of the railroad, is a private home. It was used as a hotel, restaurant and station and appears to be in excellent condition.

The Staple Bend Tunnel near Mineral Point, a few miles east of Johnstown, is sealed but it is believed to be in good condition. The tunnel is 900 feet long.

The canal could not compete with the fast-developing railroad system and the Allegheny Portage Railroad was abandoned in 1858.

Rep. Saylor says the "inclined planes and levels which comprised the eastern slope (Blair County) of the Portage Railroad present the best-preserved and most dramatic view of its route."

The South Fork Dam (Cone-maugh Lake), its breast 850 feet across, was started in 1836 to provide a feeder reservoir for the western division of the Pennsylvania Canal. The earth and stone dam, said by some to be the largest of its type in the world at the time, was abandoned as a canal facility.

Later it was repaired, raised in height by a group of wealthy Pittsburgh area residents who organized a sportsman's club, and developed into a fishing and boating resort.

Over the years the dam deteriorated and May 31, 1889, it burst, causing the Johnstown Flood. Approximately 2,200 lives were lost when the water smashed through the valley to Johnstown.

Remains of the breast may be viewed from the South Fork and Johnstown sides. The immediate area on both sides has been cleared and developed into parks by a group of South Fork residents. There are walks on both sides to the center section where the breast gave way. The site is less than a half-mile south of Route 53, near South Fork.

While the legislation was initiated by Rep. Saylor of the 22nd district, it was supported by an identical bill drafted by Rep. J. Irving Whalley of Windber, Republican from the 12th district. After unanimous passage in the House, Sen. Hugh Scott, Republican of Philadelphia, carried the bill in the Senate. Senate passage also was unanimous and the President signed the bill into law Sept. 2.

Behind Reds' New Hard Line

WASHINGTON (AP)—The tough Communist line in the current talks among Laos' leaders is re-enforcing the official U.S. view that now is no time to negotiate with the Reds over neighboring South Viet Nam.

Washington has not slammed the door on a Viet Nam parley someday—perhaps after the campaign against the Viet Cong makes more headway and Peking-Hanoi decide the guerrilla terrorism is not worthwhile. But U.S. authorities say that day is not yet in sight.

Talk of negotiations cropped up during Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor's Washington visit last week. Taylor said all wars end with negotiation and military means alone cannot win the fight in South Viet Nam.

However, the former chairman of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff predicted eventual victory through a combined political-military-economic program. Then he headed back to Saigon—arriving amid another government upheaval.

Meanwhile, Secretary of State Dean Rusk publicly looked to the talks now under way in Paris between Laos' neutralists, rightist and leftist leaders for any evidence that Asia's Communists have decided to slacken their drive on Southeast Asia.

State Department sources reported Thursday that Red Prince Souphanouvong has shown no real intent of withdrawing his Pathet Lao forces from strategic ground seized in the last offensive. Neutralist Premier Souvanna Phouma said he is preparing to break off the Paris negotiating session.

This leaves the State Department even less inclined to swing toward French President Charles de Gaulle's view: that another Geneva conference should be held to work out a peace based on neutralization of the Indochina states.

President Johnson roundly denounced the De Gaulle idea earlier this year. "We do not believe in a conference called to ratify terror," he said.

Administration officials explain that: De Gaulle's idea would involve U.S. withdrawal from South Viet Nam. The United States is against pulling out with the Communists still on the offensive there. Taylor testified that a U.S. departure would bring "a major disaster" turning not only to South Viet Nam but most of South Asia over to the Communist camp.

De Gaulle's premise, drawn from France's defeat in Indo-China 10 years ago, is that a military victory there is impossible. But that does not mean negotiation now is the only way out. U.S. policy makers figure that a combination of civil and military measures can gain the upper hand over the insurgents. These include greater governmental stability and incentives to the population to follow peaceful pursuits.

Instead of negotiating from a basis of weakness about U.S. withdrawal, as indicated in the De Gaulle approach, the United States wants to develop a base of strength from which any talk would be about concessions to be made by the Reds. But these conditions, U.S. officials say, are not in the foreseeable future.

Varying ideas about what to do in Viet Nam have come from prominent members of Congress without making much of a dent in administration policy so far.

Senate Foreign Relations Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., while jolting the administration on some other foreign policy matters with his talk about "old myth and new realities," has generally supported the policy on South Viet Nam.

On the other hand, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana has suggested that De Gaulle's neutralization is worth looking into. Mansfield says the United States is too close to full involvement in what should be a war fought by the Vietnamese. Democratic Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon and Ernest Gruening of Alaska say the Americans should pull out.

Rouse Home Recreation: Costly

By BETTY RICE

A month or so ago, the Commissioners to the Rouse Estate consulted with experts in the field of hospital recreation. At that time it was learned that to really do a job, a rather substantial budget would be necessary. In the meantime, however, Philip J. Walsh, recreation consultant from the State Dept. of Welfare, has had occasion to meet with the commissioners and the matron and superintendent of the Rouse Home regarding such a program there.

As a result of his tour of the premises, Walsh had this to say. "It was evident that there is potential space both in and out of doors for recreational activities. I hope, too, that in any expansion of the Home facilities, consideration will also be given to recreational areas."

Walsh stated that it would be important to have a job description outline for a recreation director in order that he or she, as well as other employees of the home, know exactly what the duties and responsibilities of the position are. Walsh has said he would be willing to meet with an appointed recreation director when the time came to go over suggested uses for the areas, as well as to discuss programming, recruitment and scheduling of volunteers, etc.

"A budget, of course, will be necessary, Walsh advised. 'but until there is a determination made as to just what the interests and abilities of the Home are, I think it would be wise not to set a definite figure at the outset.'"

The recreation consultant suggested that a list be made of needs for a recreational program, including some basic equipment and supplies, such as a piano, movie projector, record player, records, basic arts and crafts materials, etc. This list, he said, could be given to various organizations in the county, or to individuals, to inform them what the needs are and how they might possibly make some donations.

Walsh stated that while in the process of selecting a recreation director, it could be a good idea to consider the development of a Home Auxiliary comprised of citizens from throughout Warren County.

As was suggested by those concerned with recreation and volunteer services at Warren State Hospital, Walsh said he thought it would be well to select an advisory board, which in turn could begin organizing the Auxiliary.

A chairman of volunteers could then be selected to assist the recreation director. A volunteer training workshop could then be set up to instruct potential volunteers in a variety of activities in the recreation program. Walsh noted that volunteers are very important assets to a recreation program if they are given proper guidance and direction.

In the July discussion with the commissioners, Walsh stated that it might be a good idea to start off possibly with a two-day program, such as Tuesday and Thursday from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. Additional time would, of course, be necessary for the recreation director to plan programs, interview guests and contact community resources.

Walsh suggested that in order to attract a competent recreation director, a minimum starting salary of $5,000 for a full-time worker should be budgeted.

In order to have a successful and well meaning program, the expert stated, it is important for the commissioners and the entire staff at the county home to be informed as to exactly what the purpose of the recreation program is. The employees attitude toward the recreation program can be very effective, it was pointed out, in that it can greatly influence the guests of the Home and provide encouragement for them to participate.

When the commissioners are ready to launch such a program at the Home, Walsh has offered to assist in screening applicants for the recreation director's post. If such a program at the county home could achieve the success as has been done at Warren State Hospital, guests at the Rouse Home should benefit greatly.

Grace Church WSCS Begins New Schedule

First Methodist WSCS will meet at 8 p. m. Thursday in Dunham Parlors of the church for its initial 1964-65 gathering.

Programs mailed recently to all members indicate the theme for the year is "Summoned To a New Age," described as appropriate for exploration of the society's purpose in a year of transition.

In order to answer questions concerning all phases of the organization, Mrs. John Roop and Mrs. Shuri Glass will present a roving reporter-type show entitled "The Tonight Show."

Mrs. L. J. Farr and members of the Francis Asbury Circle, Mrs. S. E. Saylor and Mrs. Karl Fritz as chairmen, will serve as hostesses.

A meeting of the group's executive committee has been called at 7:15.

CHANGES MEETING
RUSSELL—Because of resumption of the Wednesday night fund-raising project in the Russell Fire Hall, this week's Auxiliary meeting has been changed to Thursday. All are asked to be on hand to decide about future meetings and to prepare for the rummage sale on Friday and Saturday. Anyone having articles to donate for the sale is asked to bring them to the hall or to call 757-4382, 757-9935 or 757-8106 for collection.

Ferguson-Rohlin Wedding Solemnized in Lakewood

Vases of white gladioli and mums decorated the altars of Sacred Heart Church in Lakewood, N. Y., on Sept. 12 for the marriage of Susan Ferguson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ferguson of Jamestown, to James A. Rohlin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Merritt Rohlin of 507 Homestead Place, Warren.

The double ring ceremony was performed at 11:30 a. m., the Rev. John T. Horne officiating in the presence of about 250 guests. Mrs. Edward Smith was at the organ to provide the wedding music.

WEARING white nylon Rochelle lace over taffeta, the bride was presented in marriage by her father. The fitted bodice of her gown featured a scalloped Sabrina neckline, etched with iridescents and seed pearls, and the long sleeves tapered over the hands. The bouffant skirt, designed on bell-shaped lines with scalloped hemline, formed a slight sweep. The scalloped chapel train was attached beneath a flat back bow.

Her veil of imported silk illusion cascaded from a regal crown of re-embroidered lace and seed pearl loops threaded with crystal. The bridal ensemble was completed with a cascade arrangement of white butterfly roses, miniature white carnations and ivy sprays.

ATTENDING the bride as matron of honor was Mrs. Gerald Nelson, with two cousins, Patricia Brennan and Eileen Murphy of Erie, as bridesmaids. All were gowned in street-length aqua sata peau, styled with moulded bodices and elbow sleeves. Their butterfly veils were secured by small floral headpieces in the same shade.

Mrs. Nelson carried a cascade of yellow daisies and carnations, tied with white lace-edged ribbons. Yellow ribbon ties were used on similar bouquets carried by the others.

ALL OF WARREN, Richard Conway served as best man for Mr. Rohlin. Toby Rohlin, a cousin, and Robert Sizle were ushers.

Favored with corsages of yellow and golden roses, Mrs. Ferguson chose a teal blue matisse sheath and Mrs. Rohlin selected candlelight beige embossed brocade. Remembered

Sugar Grove WSCS Will Aid UNICEF

SUGAR GROVE — WSCS members of the Methodist Church were entertained Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Clifford Storms, with Mrs. Sheldon Carlson and Mrs. Wendell Warner assisting the hostess in serving refreshments to 22 persons attending.

Mrs. Robert Audley spoke concerning the UNICEF project in October and members voted to support the work. Mrs. Audley and Mrs. Wendell Warner will direct the activity.

MRS. GERALD Miller presided for the meeting and Mrs. F. A. Schoonover gave the opening prayer. Presenting reports were Mrs. Harry Sarvis, Mrs. Burt Schoonover, Mrs. Ray Power, Mrs. Audley and Mrs. Warner.

A thank-you letter was read from Mrs. E. L. Comstock and Mrs. Alvin Rhodes expressed her thanks and those of the pastor for the reception and gift given them recently.

A workshop session in Tidoute Methodist Church on Sept. 22 was announced and Mrs. Storms said the program committee will meet Sept. 29 at the home of Mrs. Comstock. Mrs. F. A. Schoonover asked that members write to Buffalo's WBN asking continuation of the Sunday morning World of Life program.

MRS. BURT Schoonover conducted the worship service and Mrs. Miller presented the program, "A Look at Ourselves as Christian Women." Participants were Mrs. Harold Barnes, Mrs. Rhodes, Mrs. Power, Mrs. Carlson, Mrs. Walter Storms, Mrs. Clifford Storms, Mrs. Sarvis, Mrs. Burt Schoonover and Mrs. Warner. To conclude, Miss Flossie Broughton conducted a quiz on the topic "The Christian Home and Family."

Attention was called to the October meeting, to be entertained at the home of Mrs. Clarence Sherrard, with Mrs. Bert Van Ord and Mrs. Mildred Wright assisting.

THE SARAH Circle of the Presbyterian Church met at the home of Mrs. Clare Chapman for a dessert-luncheon served to 11 at a table centered with flowers, candles and foliage in autumn colors.

Mrs. F. O. Eakin presided at the meeting. Mrs. John Firth conducted the devotions, reading Scripture, offering prayer and reading a modern version of the 23rd Psalm.

Reports of officers were given and Least Coin Cards were turned in. A card of thanks from Mrs. Chapman was read.

Mrs. Eakin announced the bazaar committee, Mrs. John Stuart, Mrs. Conrad Youngberg, Mrs. Scott Stuart Jr., and Mrs. Robert Morgan.

MEMBERS who attended the workshop session in Warren on Wednesday reported highlights. It was announced the Lake Erie Presbyterian meeting for this quarter will be conducted in Tidoute Presbyterian Church Oct. 6.

Plans were discussed for the Association meeting in October and the family supper the second week in November. Mrs. Firth will entertain the October meeting and Mrs. William Younie will be program leader.

Mrs. Arthur Cody presented the study.

CHANDLERS Valley EUB Cemetery Association had its meeting at the Checkered Apron, Mrs. Ernest Hultburg of Frewsburg, N. Y., presiding. Other officers are Mrs. Alfred Akins, vice president; Mrs. Oliver Swanson, secretary; Mrs. Emory Hultburg, treasurer.

Scott Stuart talked on flowering shrubs suitable for the cemetery. He will be present, also, when the October meeting is conducted at the cemetery.

Mrs. F. O. Eakin and Mrs. Burt Schoonover served refreshments to members present from Jamestown and Frewsburg, N. Y.; Youngsville, Corry, Chandlers Valley and Sugar Grove.

MRS. CHARLOTTE Frodelius has returned from Bemus Point, N. Y., where she has been ill at the home of her step-daughter, Mrs. Walter Kelley. On Thursday, she went to Quiet Acres Nursing Home in West Spring Creek, Corry Rd.

Mrs. Marian Dick, Warren, is helping to care for her mother, Mrs. W. C. Duff, at the home of the latter's son, William Duff Jr. Mrs. Duff has been seriously ill for several weeks.

November Wedding

VIRGINIA MEYER

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Meyer of Herscher, Ill., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Virginia, to Lt. Franklin V. Young Jr., son of the Rev. and Mrs. Franklin V. Young Sr., of Columbia, Ky., and grandson of Mrs. Sarah Rulander of 7 Linwood St., Warren.

Miss Meyer is a registered nurse, employed at St. Mary's Hospital in Kankakee, Ill.

Her fiancé is stationed with the Air Force in Massachusetts.

Nov. 21 has been selected by the couple as their wedding date.

Church Women's Group To Hear Y-Teen Director

Miss Marian Peed, Y-Teen program director at the YWCA, will be the speaker for the first fall meeting of Warren Council of Church Women, planned at 1:30 p.m. Nov. 6 in the YWCA activities building. She will tell of summer experiences at the World Conference of Young Adults in Beirut, Lebanon, this summer.

AS A preliminary to the new season's activities, Mrs. Carl Lundahl entertained officers and chairmen of Council at her home for a tea and planning session last Thursday.

Also present were key women representing the member-churches: Mrs. Lynn A. Bergman, Salem EUB; Mrs. Harold Michael, Epworth Methodist; Mrs. Rich, First Baptist; Mrs. John Mallory, First EUB; Mrs. Donald McComas, First Presbyterian; Mrs. Alexander, First Methodist; Mrs. Ernest Huber, Salem EUB; Mrs. B. Burns, Emanuel United Church of Christ; Mrs. Fred Kehn, First Lutheran; Mrs. William Baillie, Salvation Army.

MRS. CARL Whipple, first vice president and program chairman, outlined the program for 1964-65. Mrs. Walter Mathyer, project chairman, presented the different projects for the year. All members willing to help with the current project at Warren State Hospital are asked to contact Mrs. Mathyer or the Rev. Franklin G. Hagberg.

The project of school kits for African children was approved, each church to present at least one kit at the November meeting. Each kit is to be made a certain size and to contain a list of items which may be obtained from the key woman of the specific church.

The treasurer's report was read and the budget for the new year was discussed.

By Natalie Williams

We've been waiting and waiting for someone in Warren to carry it, and now that we've found it probably everyone will. But we found it first in Loblaw's... the new Puss 'n Boots dry cat foods. If there's any store in town that caters to pets and carries complete lines of cat and dog food, bird seed and other essentials, Loblaw's is it. If you have a persnickety pet, you can find what you need at Loblaw's whether it's chicken livers and gizzards for your pampered feline or Fido's favorite food, dried or otherwise.

Our three cats love frozen horsemeat, which they don't get too often, and canned mackerel, which is found on people shelves but is awfully good for cats, and Puss 'n Boots, especially horsemeat and gravy and Pamper. Puss 'n Boots is prepared by the old reliable Quaker Oats Co.

Pamper is an appetite-rousing, bite-sized food that's full of nutrition and easy to serve... dry, with water or milk or any tasty liquid. It's great if you're going to be away overnight or over the weekend—no need to get a cat-sitter and cats are miserable travelers so in most cases you must leave them home. Pamper serves itself; if you must leave Puss to fend for himself, just pour out a bowlful—it stays fresh and delicious. (Always remember to leave a bowl of water too). If you're home, moisten a cup of Pamper with 1/4 cup of your cat's favorite liquid. Pamper stays crunchy when moist, keeps its body and flavor so the cat can return for "seconds"... and most cats, as any ailurophile knows, like to nibble.

For variety, try Saucy Pamper which makes its own milky sauce. Just stir one part warm water with two parts Saucy Pamper and watch the milky sauce appear. This is particularly good for kittens that are just beginning to take solids. Another way, if you have the time and patience, to get meat into kittens—and cats are primarily meat eaters, we feed ours fresh raw meat several times a week—is to scrape a piece of lean beef with a knife and roll what sticks to the knife into small pellets until they're old enough to chew.

There's lots of new ideas under the sun. Thick and fast they come. Like a brand new baking discovery—Nestle's Choco-bake. No more melting, no more scraping, no more measuring. And you know what a nuisance this can be every time you try a recipe that calls for melted chocolate. Now you can get neat little one-ounce plastic packages, eight of them in a box, with the chocolate already to pour into the bowl. Just snip and squeeze—that's all there is to it. The next time your favorite recipe calls for baking chocolate, try new Choco-bake. It's just about the greatest new idea yet.

And here's another brand new baking wrinkle, new from Pittsboro. Instant blending flour—for perfect pie crust made with an electric mixer! No more cutting in of shortening. No more measuring a little more of this or a little less of that because of the weather. You use exact amounts and everything goes into the bowl at once. Turn on the mixer, using lowest speed, and 15 to 30 seconds later you're ready to roll out your pie shell. You know how the men love a hearty piece of apple pie topped with a wedge of sharp cheese. And how the ladies go for little tarts. Now it's all so easy, with Pillsbury's instant blending flour.

New in pie fillings to go with that new pie crust is banana cream flavor—Jell-O pudding and pie filling—with real banana flakes for richer, creamier banana taste all the way through. And new dessert ideas for all favorites—pineapple shortcake as a switch from the familiar strawberry, made with Bisquick and crushed pineapple, and fruit cocktail with alternate layers of the new spiced pear gelatin for a new taste sensation.

And don't forget Borden's Cremora, all you coffee lovers—tiny little snowflakes of flavor that keep indefinitely without refrigeration but have only half the calories per serving of light cream.

Culbertson and Berardi Vows Said in St. Joseph's

St. Joseph's Church was the setting Sept. 19 for the marriage of Karen Ann Culbertson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Culbertson of 1319 Brown Run Rd., Clarendon, to Samuel L. Berardi Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Berardi of 11 Morrison St., Warren.

The double ring ceremony was solemnized at 1:30 p.m. by the Rev. Alfred M. Bauer officiating in a candlelight setting. Altar baskets held large yellow mums, small bronze and peach mums, wheat sprays and foliage. Mrs. Donald Edinger was at the organ to provide music for the service.

PRESENTED in marriage by her father, the bride designed and made her own wedding dress of white satin. The basque bodice was styled with a modified scoop neckline and Saxon sleeves, the controlled skirt featured a pleated back which swept into a brush train.

Her headpiece was a mantilla of Venetian lace. To complete her bridal ensemble, she carried a cascade of white roses and stephanotis, with ivy sprays and white ribbon streamers.

MRS. JOHN Berardi, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, served as matron of honor. She was attired in a cocktail-length sheath of frolic blue peau de soie, with detachable matching overskirt. A white velvet bow held her circular veil.

Similarly gowned in heartbeet blue, the bridesmaids were Mrs. Kingsley Culbertson, sister-in-law of the bride, and Donna Guild. All carried Colonial bouquets of bronze, yellow and white mums, wheat sprays and leaves.

COMPLETING the bridal party were the best man, John Berardi, brother of the bridegroom; and the ushers, Kingsley Culbertson, brother of the bride, and Frederick Scalise, cousin of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Culbertson wore a teal blue sculptured crepe dress, dark brown accessories and brown cymbidium orchids. Mrs. Berardi chose a caramel pebble crepe sheath, to which she added toast colored accessories and corsage of green cymbidium orchids. Mrs. Minnie Hoegstedt, grandmother of the bride, was favored with a white rose corsage.

FOLLOWING the ceremony, a reception for approximately 250 guests was given in the YWCA. Fall flowers were placed about the room and the bride's table was centered with flowers and an anniversary candle which was a gift of her parents. Lighted candles flanked the tiered wedding cake.

Mrs. Charles Berardi and Mrs. Ralph Rapp cut the cake; Mrs. Robert Coons, Mrs. Thomas Anderson and Mrs. Frederick Scalise poured; Rebecca Rapp managed the guest book. Other aides were Mrs. Laverne Nelson, Mrs. Raymond Nelson and Mrs. Burnell Benson.

When the couple left for Niagara Falls and Canada, Mrs. Berardi was wearing a blue and black striped suit, black accessories and a white rose corsage from her bridal bouquet.

THE NEWLYWEDS will be at home to friends at 309 1/2 Hazel St., after Sept. 26. The bride is employed as an EKG technician at Warren General Hospital and he is a meat-cutter at Warren State Hospital. Both are graduates of Warren Area High School and he is a veteran of two years' service in the Marine Corps.

Hostesses who honored the bride-elect were Mrs. John Berardi, Mrs. Charles Berardi, Mary Berardi; Mrs. Kingsley Culbertson and Donna Guild; Mrs. Ralph Rapp; Mrs. Minnie Hoegstedt and Mrs. Burnell Benson; also fellow-employees at Warren General.

County PTA Units to 'Buzz'

Warren County PTA Council has planned its first meeting of the new season at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Warren County Dairy social rooms, Lookout St.

Community Council members have been invited to attend and participate in a "buzz" session scheduled by the program chairman, Mrs. Francis Masterson. All County Council delegates, new officers and committee chairmen are asked to be on hand for the discussion period, which is designed to provide information concerning duties of the various officers and committees within the organization.

Refreshments at the close of the meeting will be served by North Warren unit.

Heading the county group as officers in the new year are Mrs. Earl Nobles, president; Mrs. Masterson, vice president; Mrs. George Probst, secretary; Mrs. David Worley, treasurer.

Bridge Unit Has Tourney

Players were scored against an average of 84 in both directions at last night's weekly tournament of Marconi Bridge Club. The Mitchell movement was used and eight tables were in play.

Mrs. Carl Hultberg and Mrs. M. A. Kornreich held high score for North-South with 102 1/2; second, Mr. and Mrs. James Potter, 94 1/2; third, M. A. Kornreich and Mrs. Eric Wilkensen, 81; fourth, Mrs. George Sarvis and Mrs. John Donovan, 806.

East-West high score was held by Dr. Milton Battler and Lewis Wallace, both of Jamestown, N. Y., 118; second, Mrs. J. A. Bevevino and Harry Kopf Jr., 87; third, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Israel, 84 1/2; fourth, Henry Hunzinger and Ange Scalise, 826.

Revival Series For Nazarenes

First Church of the Nazarene has announced preliminary plans for a period of revival services Oct. 14-25, with Harold Hampton as the evangelist.

Listed on the parish calendar for this week are the following events: Tuesday, 7 p.m., mid-week prayer; 7:45, choir practice. Thursday, 6:30 p.m., Youth Choir; 7:20, bus leaves for Teaberry, weather permitting. Saturday, 9:30 a.m., Hymn-Tones broadcast; 7:30 p.m., Hour of Power service.

A guest will be heard in the regular worship period next Sunday, when the Rev. John Andree will be speaking in a Holiness convention in Eastern Pennsylvania.

Teacher Units Have Meeting

Retired teachers of the Warren-Forest County and the Warren Borough Associations had a combined meeting in the YWCA activities building Thursday afternoon. The business session was directed by Margie Finlan and Eva Brown, presidents of the two groups.

The legislative program for the next session of the legislature was discussed. It was stated each group may send a delegation to the state convention in Harrisburg in October.

Following the meeting, a light lunch was served to feature the social hour.

SPONSORS SALE

The public is invited to support a "garage" sale to be conducted Wednesday and Thursday at the home of Mrs. Carl Papalia, 15 Hill St. The affair is sponsored by Court Warren 834, Catholic Daughters of America, which announces the hours will be from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m., 5 until 9 p.m. both days. Members having household furnishings of all kinds, dishes, tools, toys and other sale items are asked to bring them for marking. Calls for collections may be made to Mrs. Papalia, 723-3784, or Mrs. Dan Doherty, 723-1483.

REACH NEW HOME

Word comes from Mr. and Mrs. Harold Diker of their safe arrival in Arcadia, Calif., where they will make their future home. They will be residing at 440 W. Walnut Drive.

HAS SPEAKER

Dr. Joseph Strite, a staff member at Warren State Hospital, will be the guest speaker for the first fall meeting of the YWCA Dessert Club on Friday. Addressing the group at 1:15 p.m. in the activities building, he will use the topic "Positive Thinking for Mental Health."

CIRCLE HOSTESSES

RUSSELL—For this week's meeting of Thursday Circle of Russell Methodist Church, members will be entertained at the church by Mrs. John Nelson and Mrs. Robert Emery.

The bidding:

South West North East

Opening lead—king of clubs.

Let's say you're playing this hand at four spades and West leads a club. You take it with the ace, cash the A-K of spades, and then lead the ten of diamonds, losing the finesse to the jack.

East returns the eight of hearts, on which you play low, and West's nine forces the queen from dummy. When you now come to your hand with a trump and play the nine of diamonds, finessing again, East takes the king and delivers the telling blow by returning the deuce of hearts. This permits West to cash two hearts and you are down one.

Of course, this is an unlucky result. After all, West was the one who did the bidding for his side and the odds were great that he would have one of the two missing diamond honors, if not both.

But when you think about the hand afterwards, you realize that you contributed to your own defeat and that you really should have made the contract, despite the bad luck of losing both finesses. There was a practically sure way of making ten tricks, and it was not difficult.

At the point when East returned the eight of hearts, you should have put up the king instead of playing low. This would have forced West to take the ace and your troubles would have been over regardless of where the king of diamonds was located.

Whatever West returned, the contract would be safe. Suppose he returned a heart. You would win it with the queen, enter your hand with a trump, and take another diamond finesse.

True, the finesse would lose, but that would be the end of the hand. East would not have a heart to return—he could not have more than two hearts, in view of West's overcall—and when he returned a club, you would ruff it and get rid of the heart loser on dummy's fourth diamond.

TV, Electron Microscope Linked To Open New 'Eye' for Science

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP) — Television has been linked with the electron microscope, opening the scientist's eye today to things he has never seen before.

The new TV attachment increases magnification power to two million times — 10 times more sensitive than any other known microscope.

Under the TV magnification, a one-inch paper clip would be 32 miles long... a man's foot would stretch 400 miles.

The system, developed by Radio Corporation of America, and disclosed today, is another advance in science's struggle to see, to the tiniest part, what man and material are composed of.

C. H. Colledge, vice president of RCA's broadcast and communications product division, said the new TV system, with image intensification, is "the most important single advance in microscope design since the perfection of the microscope itself."

The electron microscope, without TV, magnified 200,000 times and permitted scientists to observe objects a million times thinner than the human hair.

Now even tinier objects can be seen.

"These images heretofore have been too dim to observe at high magnifications, or the specimens themselves have been destroyed or altered when exposed to the instrument's strong electron beam," Colledge said.

The TV system, removing these limitations, increases images by at least 10 times and displays them on standard TV monitors, Colledge said. He cited these advantages for scientists:

1. Radiation-sensitive plastics and other materials, until now generally destroyed or altered by the electron beam, can be examined for the first time by directing a weak beam and then intensifying this beam over TV until the eye can see the object.

2. The changes of specimens as their temperatures are raised or lowered, or are stretched or magnetized can now be viewed and also recorded on TV tape for future playbacks. Thus a TV tape can be made as a microscope records the stretching of a fiber until it snaps.

3. With image intensification, still photographs can be snapped in a fraction of a second.

4. Classrooms can watch the microscopic examination on TV, either at the exact time of the experiment or via tape.

Colledge said the engineers, in integrating the two sensitive electronic devices, had to combine some 4,300 individual parts and 80 miles of wiring in a closely packed structure without interrupting the magnetic fields and the high-voltage equipment of the two instruments.

"That's almost $5.00 a month LESS than we expected for heat, light, cooking... plus refrigerator, freezer, washer, dryer, water heater, dehumidifier, TV, radio and all minor appliances!"
Edward Best, Jr., R.D. #1, Knox, Pa.

New! Money Back Guarantee of cost, comfort, satisfaction if you convert to electric heat now!

Switch to electric home heat now! Try it for one year. If you're not completely satisfied that electric heat is cleaner, safer, more dependable than your present heat—and that the cost is reasonable—Penelec will repurchase your heating equipment at year's end. You can't lose!

The Best's all-electric 6-room home was budgeted by Penelec at $31.00 a month, or $372.00 a year, for electric heat and a wide assortment of appliances. Actual usage proved Penelec's figure high, and the Best's received the surprise of their lives—a $59.55 refund at year's end (monthly bonus savings of $4.96)!

Compare your present total annual fuel costs with Edward Best's. Then compare your present heating system with safe, clean, convenient electric heat! Chances are, you'll act immediately on Penelec's unprecedented guarantee of satisfaction.

GENEROUS TRADE-IN ALLOWANCE, TOO!

Up to $350.00 trade-in on your old equipment if you convert to electric heat now! Regardless of age or state of wear, your present system is worth good money, based on the number of square feet you will be heating electrically. (Offer expires November 15).

Obituaries

(The Warren Times-Mirror does not charge for obituary notices. A small charge for advertising is made direct to the funeral directors for the notices in which the names of their funeral homes appear.)

H. W. WITHINGTON

Harvey Wallace Withington, 68, of 168 Bates St., Youngsville, died in the family home at 8:30 a.m. Sept. 21, 1964, after an extended illness.

Mr. Withington was born in Kane on July 1, 1896, the son of the late George and Letha Johnson Withington. Prior to his retirement about three years ago, he followed the carpentering trade.

Surviving are his wife, Edna Olson Withington, and the following children: Mrs. Robert (Helen) Larson, Kane; Mrs. David (Mary) Merenick, Warren; Mrs. Burtis (Ruth) Hallberg, Bemus Point, N. Y.; John Withington, Titusville, Fla.; Captain Clarence Withington, Wurtsmith Air Force Base, Oscoda, Mich.; and Roy Withington, Youngsville.

There are, also, 12 grandchildren; a brother and two sisters, Raymond Withington and Mrs. Leo Kreckel, St. Marys; Mrs. Russell Van Atta, Court House, Va. Another sister, Mrs. Grace Mover, died in 1925; a brother, Clifford, in 1915.

The Rev. Lyston Knappenberger, Methodist minister, will conduct the funeral service in Youngsville at 2 p.m. Wednesday and burial will follow in Forest Lawn Cemetery in Kane.

JULIA S. SWANSON

Mrs. Julia Sophia Swanson, 88, of Main St., Ludlow, died at 5:30 a.m. Sept. 21, 1964, in Warren General Hospital. She had been ill for the last month and in serious condition for a week.

Mrs. Swanson was born June 29, 1876, in Sweden and lived in Wetmore before coming to Ludlow 56 years ago. She was a member of Moriah Lutheran Church and active in parish affairs; also of the S. F. of A. Lodge.

The widow of John Swanson, who died March 23, 1963, she is survived by five children, Mrs. Harold Nelson and Raymond Swanson, Warren; Mrs. Helge Nelson, Chicago, Ill.; Harry Swanson, Ludlow; Okey Swanson, Erie; seven grandchildren and five great-grandchildren; a sister, Mrs. Alma Peterson, in Sweden.

Her pastor, the Rev. Carl F. Eliason, will conduct the funeral service in Kane at 2 p.m. Thursday. Burial will follow in Gibbs Hill Cemetery in Ludlow.

OMEDA A. BARRHIGHT

Mrs. Omeda M. Barrhight, 63, of Pleasant St., Clarendon, died unexpectedly at 8:10 p.m. Sept. 21, 1964, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Pastilock, also of Clarendon.

Mrs. Barrhight was born in Kelleetville, Forest County, on May 18, 1901, and had lived in Clarendon for many years. She was a member of Clarendon EUB Church and of Diamond Grange in Tiona.

The widow of Alfred S. Barrhight, who died March 11, 1956, she is survived by three children, Mrs. Pastilock of Clarendon; Wayne Barrhight, Warren; Mrs. Willis (Della) Tonniges of Medford, Ore.; nine grandchildren and three great-grandchildren; also four sisters, Mrs. Pearl Barr and Mrs. Mabel Nobles, Clarendon; Mrs. Edna Aber, Weldbank; and Mrs. Murna Bonnell, Warren; several nieces and nephews.

Her pastor, the Rev. Meredith Swift, will conduct the funeral service at 1:30 p.m. Thursday and burial will follow in Warren County Memorial Park in Starbuck.

MRS. WILLIAM G. SMITH

Mrs. Elva Harris Smith, wife of William G. Smith of Washington, D. C., died this morning, Sept. 22, 1964, after a short illness. She was a sister-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Richard G. Smith, 301 Market St.

Funerals

OMEDA M. BARRHIGHT—

Friends will be received in the Peterson-Blick Funeral Home, starting at 7 p.m. today, also from 2 until 4 and 7 until 9 p.m. Wednesday. The service will be conducted there at 1:30 p.m. Thursday by the Rev. Meredith Swift of Clarendon EUB Church. Burial will follow in Warren County Memorial Park in Starbuck.

H. W. WITHINGTON—

Friends will be received in the McKinney Funeral Home in Youngsville, from 2 until 4 and 7 until 9 p.m. today, and the service will be conducted there at 2 p.m. Wednesday. The Rev. Lyston Knappenberger, pastor of Youngsville Methodist Church, will officiate and burial will follow in Forest Lawn Cemetery in Kane.

MRS. W. G. SMITH—

Arrangements for the service are being made by the Lee Funeral Home, 4th and Massachusetts Ave. NE, in Washington, D. C.

First Church was named to the executive committee, effective the first of the new year.

Gerald Huber, chairman of the YMCA Membership Committee, has told parents of youth members that if they find it inconvenient to attend the orientation meetings on the suggested dates, they may come on a different date. The schedule as announced below is only a suggested one.

Monday, Sept. 28—all those east of Conewango Ave., Warren Borough—7-9 p.m.

Tuesday, Sept. 29—all those west of Conewango Ave.—Warren Borough—7-9 p.m.

Wednesday, Sept. 30—all those in Pleasant Township and North Warren—7-9 p.m.

Thursday, Oct. 1—Sheffield, Youngsville, Starbuck, Sugar Grove, Russell, and all others outside Warren Borough—7-9 p.m.

Parents are asked to indicate on the form sent in the mail as to which night they will attend. It is most important that parents and youth members attend on one of these dates to learn about the new program at the Y. A "Sneak Preview" of the new facilities will be provided for those attending.

Youth members must be accompanied by their parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Stites, 19 Plum St., returned Sunday from Pittsburgh, where they attended the 28th annual convention of the Western Pennsylvania Moose Association.

During sessions conducted in the Penn-Sheraton Hotel, the Warren man was installed president of District Two, which is comprised of 10 lodges in Emporium, Galeton, Elkland, Ridgway, St. Marys, Johnsonburg, Port Allegany, Bradford, Kane and Warren.

Parents are reminded of the special meeting of Cub Scout Pack 2 which takes place at the Jefferson School auditorium tonight at 7. All boys, ages eight through ten, who are interested in registering or reregistering should be present with their parents.

Samuel E. Hoke Jr., who has been cited on three charges, including assault with intent to kill, has been committed to Warren State Hospital in a court order from Judge Elmer L. Evans of Erie. Hoke was involved in a running gun fight with Erie and Millcreek police Aug. 2 and later charged with armed robbery and assault with a deadly weapon by Erie police, and with assault with intent to kill by police of Millcreek. Judge Evans ordered his commitment for 90 days for "observation, diagnosis and treatment."

Big Joe made his usual donation of a basket of McIntosh apples to The Times-Mirror business office today—hinting perhaps that he has some for sale, too. Thanks, Joe.

The Northwestern Pennsylvania Speech Therapists Association will meet at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Leader Clinic, Edinboro State College. The featured speaker will be Harold Hartley, associate professor of speech correction at Clarion State College. He will discuss "Recent Developments and Diagnosis of Hearing Problems." Any people interested in this area are invited.

prepared in the next few months and funds for acquisition of the land are expected to be included if the government is not assured that proper regulations are being established locally.

WILLIAM WENTZ, supervisor of the Allegheny National Forest, confirmed this morning that government acquisition of the land was a definite possibility.

"Some type of protection or zoning would be necessary," he said, "no matter where the line stops."

THE IMPACT report prepared by the Forest Service four years ago designates a line for recreation protection, but it does not extend back as far as the Scandia Rd., Wentz said.

But the Simonds and Simonds report prepared for the county planning commission, he pointed out, indicates that all of the land east of the Scandia Rd. should be zoned for recreation purposes.

The Bureau of the Budget, Wentz said, feels it is necessary that all possible avenues be explored, ranging from township zoning to federal acquisition of land.

THE EMPHASIS, he said, is on orderly development.

Developments in the area between the Allegheny River and the Scandia Rd. indicated in the Simonds and Simonds report include water-based facilities for swimming and fishing, picnic areas, trails for hiking and equestrian use, active sports areas for both winter and summer, overlooks and camping facilities.

The chairman of the Elk Twp. board of supervisors could not be reached this morning for comment since he was at work on township roads.

BUT AS FAR back as early 1960 the supervisors were discussing zoning with the county commissioners to tie in with recreational plans for the Kinzua dam reservoir area, and early this year a public meeting was held at which taxpayers present appeared to favor such action.

Gerald Archibald, chairman of the Glade Twp. board of supervisors, told The Times-Mirror this morning that "it's up to some of the individuals to start carrying the ball" because the supervisors have to go by the will of the constituents.

THERE ARE more people in the township who favor zoning than there are against it, he said, but many are complacent about the matter and a large percentage really don't understand it.

Archibald said the supervisors are still holding small meetings by request to explain the proposed ordinance and that they are available at any time to talk to township people.

"IF VARIANCES have to be made," he said, "they can be worked out. We are not trying to push it through and we do not plan to take any concrete action until we are sure the people fully understand it."

The implication of government acquisition is "certainly very serious," he said further, "and the people should wake up."

HE ADDED that it would be better to have government acquisition than haphazard development by individual whims.

There has to be a master plan, he said, and it is apparent that the government feels

Warren Report Is Slated For Release This Weekend

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Warren Commission's report on the assassination of President John F. Kennedy will be unfolded to the world next weekend.

The commission headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren, which has been probing the Dallas tragedy of last Nov. 22, will submit its findings to President Johnson on Thursday, the White House announced.

Press secretary George Reedy said the report — a volume of a quarter of a million words, plus 20 or more additional volumes of testimony and evidence — will be made public over the weekend. He did not specify the day or hour.

Reedy said he did not know who would deliver the report, but commission sources said they expect Warren and his six colleagues to visit the White House personally late Thursday morning.

The six other members who have been working with Warren for the past fortnight to complete the 10-month inquiry, are:

Allen W. Dulles, former director of the Central Intelligence Agency; John J. McCloy, lawyer, banker and former high commissioner for Germany; Sens. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., and John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky.; and Reps. Hale Boggs, D-La., and Gerald Ford, R-Mich.

They have worked for utmost secrecy and under heavy security precautions, but are understood to have found no substantial evidence to refute the original conclusions of Dallas authorities and the Federal Bureau of Investigation — that:

Lee Harvey Oswald, 24-year-old Marxist, marksman and unstable ex-Marine, planned the slaying alone and executed it from a sniper's perch in the Texas School Book Depository overlooking the presidential motorcade.

And that Jack Ruby, the Dallas night club owner convicted of murdering Oswald two days later, was not linked to any plot or conspiracy of the left or right.

cost of excavation and pipes from his home to the line.

HE TOLD the court he did not appear at a hearing scheduled for last Aug. 27 because he "felt I couldn't get a fair hearing." He was given a 20-day extension then to comply with the hook-in order.

Meanwhile, workmen hired by the township yesterday began excavating on the Zumstein property to carry out the hook-in.

Supervisors who said the ordinance was passed about two years ago said the Zumsteins would be billed for the hook-in and accompanying labor. If the bill is not paid, a lien will be taken out against the property, they said.

It will have no alternative if people are not willing to work toward the orderly development of the area.

FOP Bucktail Lodge Notes Its 25th Anniversary

Bucktail Lodge 96, Fraternal Order of Police observed its 25th anniversary last Saturday. Seventy-five active and associate members with their wives attended a dinner dance in the Kane Elks club rooms to mark the event.

BOROUGH patrolman Charles Musante, chairman for the affair, in the role of master of ceremonies presented a brief history of the lodge. He explained that its name was derived by being named after the 42nd regiment which formed in the wildcat district comprised of Forest, McKean, Elk and Clinton counties.

Musante noted that this regiment had blazed a path of glory during the civil war by taking part in most every engagement. He pointed out, too, that the lodge in its early years had covered nine counties, stretching from Erie County to Clinton County, but gradually having its territory cut by formation of new lodges.

SPECIAL tribute and mention was accorded ten living charter members who still belong to the lodge and silent tribute was paid to the nine charter members who have passed to their eternal reward. The remaining eight members of the original 27 have either left police work or dropped out for various reasons.

Special mention was made of Bert Werlin, who has been a Warren Associate member since one of the first lodge meetings.

MUSANTE emphasized that the first organizational meeting was in Warren's municipal building but members voted to meet in Kane due to its geographical location. Meetings were held in the Kane city building starting in February of 1939. In 1941, a room in the Cohn building was secured. The lodge moved to the West Side Hotel in 1958 and then to the Elks Club in 1960.

Lodge President James Herzog spoke briefly and Francis J. Erich, secretary, the only charter member present at the affair, was introduced and commended for his years of service.

GUEST speaker was Judge Herbert P. Sorg, U. S. District Judge for western Pennsylvania. His remarks were confined to the strides and advancements made in police procedure and investigation. The judge also noted that improved conditions have attracted better men for police positions at all levels.

Two local men, Chief of Police Michael Evan and retired patrolman Clarence W. Park are charter members of the lodge but were unable to be present for the ceremonies.

Firemen—

gouged fire lines just 200 yards from the hospital.

The fire burned along the ridges on both sides of Rincon Valley, where most of the damage to homes occurred.

Some 200 city employees manning bulldozers and steam shovels joined firemen in throwing a protective ring around the fire's next threatened target—the Ursuline convent housing 116 students and 16 Catholic nuns.

By early morning, the convent was believed out of danger.

And officials in both communities — despite the devastation — were thankful.

"It was a miracle there were no major injuries," said Keith Bathurst, assistant city manager of Santa Rosa.

Most serious injury reported was a shoulder separation suffered by an unidentified youth who tumbled down the side of a canyon while fighting the fire near his home.

Heightening hope the fire will be controlled today is the anticipated use of borate bombs provided by the California Division of Forestry.

The danger point also appeared to have passed in Napa, 30 miles south of Calistoga at the opposite tip of the wine-rich Napa Valley.

Demonstrators milled about Premier Nguyen Khanh's office Monday during negotiations between union leaders and the labor minister.

Washington authorities said that while they do not want to make any flat predictions at this distance, they do not believe the latest Saigon unrest is leading to a general breakdown there.

If there is a general collapse in South Viet Nam, U.S. strategists would be faced with some hard choices about what to do with the massive U.S. program to help the Saigon government stamp out Red insurgents.

Washington's tactic thus is still to back whoever it sees as the best leadership in Saigon.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market advance pushed ahead against increasing opposition early this afternoon. Trading was moderately active.

Gains of fractions to around a point among key stocks outnumbered losers.

Profit-taking on the strong rise of Monday and the additional gains this morning began to mount as the session wore on.

The top three steelmakers took minor losses. Auto stocks were scrambled even though General Motors advanced nearly a point, touching another new high. GM showed no alarm at the Friday strike deadline set up by the United Auto Workers.

Selected advances by chemicals, rails, golds, electrical equipments and machinery issues helped keep the list in plus territory.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .8 at 325.8 with industrials up 1.1, rails up .7 and utilities up .1.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 1.82 at 873.40.

Milwaukee Road sank more than a point as profits were taken on its latest run up.

Gains of around a point were held by New York Central, Polaroid, U.S. Smelting, Control Data and International Harvester.

Corporate bonds were mixed. U.S. government bonds resumed their uptrend.

Midtown Names Manager for Used Cars

Robert J. Valone has been named manager of used car sales at Midtown Motors, local Ford dealer on Market St. ext., it was announced this morning.

He has attended the Ford Motor Institute in Buffalo and returned last week from a sales institute in Newark, N.J.

In his new capacity, Valone will be responsible for seeing that Midtown's used cars are in top condition for resale and that necessary parts and equipment are on hand.

He had been in his own business, Valone's Atlantic service station on the East Side since 1952, prior to joining Midtown Motors in June, 1963 as a salesman.

Thomas Coupling Promotes Four Men at Warren Plant

The Thomas Coupling Division of Rex Chain Belt Inc. announced today that the following promotions have been made at the Warren plant:

DONALD H. Mills has assumed the newly-created position of Supervisor-Production Control, with responsibility for scheduling shop production and inventory control.

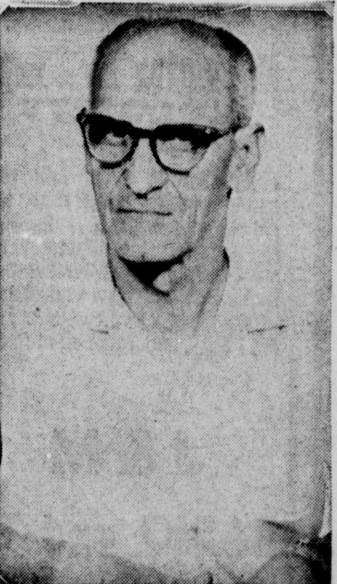

He has had various assignments at Thomas since April 1942, the most recent being Supervisor-Inventory Control.

DELBERT O. Dalrymple will become supervisor of Shop Industrial Relations as of October 1, 1964. This is also a new job which now requires full time attention because of recent expansions of the Division's work force. His responsibility will include Recruiting, Labor Negotiations, Group Insurance Administration, and related Personnel work. Del has been with the Thomas organization since October 1956, largely in supervisory capacities.

HAROLD C. Sigworth will be foreman of the Assembly Department. Harold has been with Thomas since September 1939 as a machine operator and in shop supervision. In this new job, he will also have full responsibility for the supervision of the Stores, Crating and Packing areas.

RICHARD J. Bertch is now the foreman of the third shift. He started at Thomas in March 1957. Since then, he has accumulated experience on numerous types of machine tools, and was most recently a turret lathe operator on the second shift. In this new assignment, he will supervise many varied shop operations.

Paper Publishes Tiny Edition

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—The Youngstown Vindicator announced it was suspending publication Monday, then put out a single-page edition for sale at its struck plant.

The daily afternoon and Sunday newspaper had published uninterrupted for 75 years, except during a snowstorm in 1950.

A spokesman for the paper said a one or two-page edition would be available daily until further notice.

A dozen supervisory personnel have been putting out a small edition for over-the-counter sales since the paper was struck Aug. 18 by the American Newspaper Guild. More than 400 have been felled.

A statement by the company said:

"The Vindicator today suspends publication temporarily because of mechanical problems and because of limited manpower available. Since the American Newspaper Guild struck Aug. 18, it has been impossible to carry on proper maintenance. We hope to resume publication soon."

There's Youth At Its Best!

• NEXT TIME you hear someone say there's far too many so-called "juvenile delinquents" these days — and too much news about them — just take a look at the solid young citizen who delivers your newspaper so dependably each day! Then remember there are more than a million boys just like him in North America!

THESE BOYS are no delinquents—far from it! They're ambitious, industrious, responsible young businessmen! Making constructive use of spare time! Learning by doing! Earning money by their own efforts! Acquiring habits and know-how that will help them get ahead in life! Modern youth at its best! Taking the same first-step to success that so many leaders have taken! Does YOUR son have a newspaper route?

WIN $50.00 if You Pick 18 Winners From Teams Posted

PLUS $50.00 BONUS if You Are a Home-Delivered Subscriber To The Times-Mirror

RULES-REGULATIONS

In order to win, an entrant must correctly pick the winners of 18 of the 20 games listed on the ballot. He must also fill in the blank indicating the number of net yards he believes the Pittsburgh Steelers will gain on the ground in their game this week. This will be used only in case of a tie between entrants with the closest guess winning, $100 will be awarded the person correctly picking 18 out of 20 winners. If he is a home subscriber to The Times-Mirror, or indicates on his entry blank that he wishes to become one, he will be awarded $50. The person selecting the most correct winners (20 out of 20 as compared to 18 or 19 out of 20) of course will be declared the winner. In the event of a tie, including a tie on net yardage gained rushing by the Steelers, the prize money will be divided equally. The ballot must be filled out completely or it will be ruled ineligible.

The official entry blank, published only in The Times-Mirror, should be used. Reasonable facsimiles will be allowed. Entries should be written in ink. An individual may enter the contest only once per week. Any person sending in more than one ballot becomes automatically ineligible for that week. Employees of The Times-Mirror and their immediate families are not eligible. Entries should be MAILED to The Times-Mirror and received no later than 5 p.m. on the day of the contest. Entries postmarked later than Thursday midnight will not be eligible. Mail entries to Football Contest Editor, Warren Times-Mirror, P. O. Box 720, Warren, Pa. 16365. All entries become the property of The Times-Mirror and none can be returned. The decision of the judges is final. In the event a game is postponed for any reason at all it will not count in the week's contest. In the event there are no winners in the contest the judges will select the ballot which has picked the most correct teams (17 or less). A year's subscription to The Times-Mirror will be awarded the person picking the most correct teams, less than 18. In the event of a tie, equal prizes will be offered. In the event the winner of the consolation prize is a subscriber to The Times-Mirror, his subscription will be extended. Contest winners will be announced the Tuesday following the contest. Checks will be mailed to the winners.

See Southern Cal in Upset over Oklahoma

Mississippi, Navy, Oklahoma, and Texas... four of the '63 powerhouses that are top favorites for national honors in '64 gun for their second victories of the young season this week. And another '63 power, Illinois, goes after win No. 1.

The Illini knock heads with a rejuvenated California Bear in Berkeley. However, big Bear or little Bear, the Big Ten champions should win by two touchdowns.

The Rebels of Mississippi will clip the Wildcats of Kentucky without too much trouble (at least that's what it says on paper!) — the margin will be 29 points.

But in this next headliner, we're going along with an upset: the guess is that the Trojans of Southern Cal will "whup" the Oklahoma Sooners by a field goal. All you good Oklahomans may now go to your favorite hardware store and buy a shiny new axe!

In Navy-land at Annapolis, the Midshipmen will muss up William and Mary by about four touchdowns. And down in the Southwest, mighty Texas will shoot Texas Tech daid, Dad, really daid — however, only 13 points worth.

Along with Kentucky-Mississippi, the other jolly members of the Southeast Conference will really level all barrels at each other this Saturday. Auburn, conference runner-up in '63 tackles Tennessee, and will chalk up its second win; Tigers over the Vols by 17.

Alabama will roll again, this time at the expense of Tulane... the Tide by 28 points. Mississippi State and Florida should have a real head-masher, and from here, it looks like Florida by just eight points.

Big Six Conference champion Washington, loser by a baseball score to the Air Force last week takes on the Southwest Conference runner-up, Baylor. In their two previous meetings, the Huskies have gone down to defeat. Well, same song, third verse: Baylor by 7 points.

Peeking out from behind the huge football curtain, the muscle-flexing Wolverines of Michigan meet the Air Force. Michigan, another title favorite in the Big Ten, will win, but only by five points.

On the local scene, the Dragons are heavy favorites to take their third straight Section II victory from Titusville, we'll have to go with Kane over Youngsville due to size and experience. Shffield over St. Marys in another breeze and Northern Area should topple Silver Creek but it'll be a close one.

Steelers Put Tittle Through the Wringer

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Hanging out the pro football wash — and didn't the Pittsburgh Steelers put Y. A. Tittle through the wringer.

John Baker, a 270-pounder, put Tittle in a daze and the New York Giants in a tizzy with a bone jarring tackle that knocked the veteran quarterback out of Sunday's game.
The injury, diagnosed as severely bruised cartilages around three ribs, left Tittle as doubtful at best for Friday night's game with the Washington Redskins. In Y.A. can't go, Gary Wood, a rookie, will handle the signal calling.
It would be a tough spot for a 21-year-old from Cornell with the Giants 0-2 and desperately needing a win to stay alive in the National League's Eastern Division race.

If that fellow who kept scoring touchdowns for San Francisco in its upset victory over Philadelphia looked familiar to Eagle Coach Joe Kuharich, there was a good reason.
Mike Lind played for Kuharich for three years at Notre Dame. At least he was on the Irish roster. Injuries limited him to five games in the three seasons, so that Kuharich never did see much of him.
Lind made up for it Sunday, scoring three times, and Kuharich would just as soon not see any more of him.

One man's meat and potatoes is leftover hash for another.
After the Los Angeles Rams had blown a fourth-quarter lead and had to settle for a tie with the Detroit Lions, Ram Coach Harland Sware was philosophical.

It's Connie In a Breeze In Cup Race

By SID MOODY
Associated Press Writer
NEWPORT, R. I. (AP) — They held a post-mortem on the drowned America's Cup hopes of Sovereign.
The verdict, with no one dissenting — the better designed, equipped and sailed boat won.
Constellation was outstanding in outclassing the challenger from the Royal Thames Yacht Club in four straight races and never more so than in Monday's final race which she won by almost two miles or 15 minutes, 40 seconds over Rhode Island Sound.

It was a bitter defeat for all hands of the British entourage and Tony Boyden, who paid $300,000 to make Sovereign the finest challenger Britain could produce for the Cup that America has held without interruption for 113 years.

This was the 19th successful challenge in which the U.S. has won 60 of the 66 races held.
"We obviously were beaten because we weren't good enough in every facet—rigging, spars and sailing to some extent," said Boyden.

He would challenge again, Boyden said, only if he could be assured "if designers in Britain can come forward with designs we know are good enough to catch the Americans."
The prospect, he said was not encouraging.

Poor Buddy! He's Just Too Small!

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — When Constellation's victorious crew swapped shirts with Sovereign's sailors following its fourth straight America's Cup victory Monday, Buddy Bombard, the agile but diminutive boss of Constellation's foredeck, had a problem.
No one could find a sweater small enough to fit Buddy and he finally had to swap with one of the women in Sovereign's entourage.

Fight Results

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
TOKYO — Kiyoshi Tanabe, outpointed Jet Parker, 114½, Philippines, 10.
MANCHESTER, England — Howard Winstone, 127½, England, outpointed Jose Bisbal, 127, Spain, 10.
DALLAS — Roy Rogers, 198, Levelland, Tex., outpointed Murphy Gordwin, 195, Houston, 10.

"A tie in this league is like a win," said Sware.
Not so for Lion Coach George Wilson. "We lost because we didn't block and tackle," the disappointed Wilson said.

Boston Patriot Coach Mike Holovak was talking to reporters after his club lost the American League title to San Diego by 51-10 last January.
"For the life of me," Holovak said, "I can't believe that's the difference between the two teams."
The Pats proved he was right coming back to knock off the Chargers 33-28 Sunday.

Pirates Opening Last Home Stand Of 1964 Seasons

PITTSBURGH (AP)— The Pittsburgh Pirates open their final homestand of the season tonight and a victory will move them back into fifth place.

The Bucs meet the Milwaukee Braves in the first of a two-game set. Pittsburgh is 12½ games out of first place and one-half game behind fifth place Milwaukee.

Bob Veale, the big lefty gunning for a 20-game victory season, is scheduled to pitch for the Pirates. Veale has won five straight games and has an 18-10 record. Denny Lemaster (15-11) will pitch for the Braves.

3 Golfers Score Holes-in-One On Same Course

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A hole-in-one — a golfing rarity — was accomplished Monday by three players at the Oak Hill Country Club.

Joseph Scanlon of Rochester, a retired tire dealer who is in his 70s, scored his ace on the 132-yard 4th hole of the club's West course, using No. 6 iron.
Carl Jones, a 52-year-old ice cream manufacturer from Rochester, put in a No. 4 iron shot on the East course's 161-yard 11th hole.

J. P. Scullin, 40, a dentist from Oswego, bagged a hole-in-one with a No. 7 iron on the 120-yard 15th hole of the East course.

New Substitution Rule

LOS ANGELES — It occurred to those watching the college football opener last Saturday between UCLA and Pittsburgh that remarkable things can happen to a game administered by rulesmakers of the purest genius.

The athletes put into motion for the first time the latest legislation pertaining to substitution, and what you saw was the closest thing to cheating yet contrived.

Mind you, it wasn't cheating per se. It was a violation of the spirit, which, in activities involving amateurs, is supposed to be pretty serious business.

As you doubtless know, college football decided to relax the substitution restrictions this year, but didn't wish to acknowledge that unlimited subbing, as practiced by the pros, was the answer.

Straining for an ersatz plan, the game's law men, in an explosion of cerebral brilliance, came up with the idea of letting a team substitute as many as two players at any time, but forbidding further substitution until the ball was out of play.

One way to put the ball out of play, of course, is to call time out, but a team can't do this indiscriminately, considering that it gets but four times out a half.

So you saw alternative last Saturday. On at least three occasions, UCLA, playing the platoon system, wanted to get its defensive unit into the game on fourth down before giving up the ball on a punt.

Have They Gone Mad?

The center accomplished this by dawdling for 25 seconds without snapping the ball, thus forcing a five-yard penalty, but permitting mass substitution.

The UCLA coach, nor others who will circumvent the rule similarly this season, cannot be faulted, because this is the position to which they have been reduced by the unrealistic people who run their sport.

But it is, as pointed out above, a clear fracture of the rule's spirit, and it encourages the sort of fudging from which college boys are better dissuaded. They aren't yet old enough to comport themselves like men.

Secondly, college football isn't at all enhanced by stalling tactics of any nature. If its aim is to enliven the game with more liberal substituting, it is counterbalancing its plan with glaring delays.

Watching the opening of the NCAA football schedule on TV last Saturday, we were seized by another sparkling thought, namely, that our institutions of higher learning these days have gone stark raving mad.

It is understandable that they should make their games available to television for the rewards involved, but they are now down to shilling for the network with which they do business.

In Pitt Stadium, the band spelled out "NBC." A university official presented a certificate to the guy who plays the lead in "Mr. Novak," an NBC series.

NBC Purchasing Pitt?

The band then maneuvered into a profile of Bob Hope, and the man on the loudspeaker announced, "we salute NBC-TV as it embarks upon another season of great entertainment."

The show wound up with a plug for the NBC affiliate in Pittsburgh.

Such patronage on the part of a major university was the least bit staggering, and it led you to suspect that if Joe's hamburger stand will supply training tables with meat, our college bands will spell out, "Eat at Joe's."

If you are searching for telltale notes, you could read certain significance into the halftime show at Pitt Stadium. It could be the forerunner to the purchase of the University of Pittsburgh by NBC.

CBS, after all, began more obscurely at Yankee Stadium.

As a solid favorite last Saturday, the NBC Panthers were made to look pretty foolish by a UCLA team less powerful and less skilled, but noticeably brighter.

The Bruins jabbed, ducked and moved to pile up enough points in the early going to see them through a last quarter crisis. Their performance was heads up all the way.

Pitt, of course, dropped six passes, which is stopping the clock the hard way. UCLA has found a better system.

Emile Griffith Defending Title Against Curvis

LONDON (AP) — Thousands of Welsh boxing fans arrived in London to root for Brian Curvis, their national idol, in his bid for Emile Griffith's world welterweight title tonight.

Griffith, the hard-hitting, 26-year-old New Yorker, is a 2-1 favorite to win the 15-rounder before a sellout crowd of 10,300 in Wembley's indoor stadium. The fight is scheduled to start about 3 p.m., EST.

The 27-year-old Welshman holds the British and Empire titles.

Leaders' Weakness Revealed

By MIKE RATHET

Associated Press Sports Writer

It's taken 150 games but the National League-leading Philadelphia Phillies finally have revealed a weakness.

All the opposition has to do is get a man to third base. Then it's all downhill.

Cincinnati's Chico Ruiz reached third in the sixth inning Monday night and promptly became the second player in three games to beat the Phillies by stealing home.

Ruiz' theft and John Tsitouris' six-hit pitching gave the Reds a 1-0 victory and pulled second-place Cincinnati to within 5 1/2 games of the Phillies, who were beaten by the Los Angeles Dodgers 4-3 Saturday night when Willie Davis stole home in the 16th inning.

In the only other game scheduled Monday, Rusty Staub drove in two runs and Ken Johnson pitched a four-hitter as the Houston Colts defeated San Francisco 3-1 for their fifth straight victory — and the third under new Manager Luman Harris.

The loss left the fourth-place Giants seven games back of the Phillies with only a dozen games remaining. The Phillies tangle with the Reds again tonight, seeking to move closer to their first pennant since 1950 sending Chris Short, 17-7 against Jim O'Toole, 15-7.

The American League pennant race resumes this afternoon when second-place Baltimore meets Detroit. The Orioles, one game behind the front-running New York Yankees, will start Milt Pappas, 15-5, against the Tigers' Hank Aguirre, 5-10.

The Yankees are scheduled for a two-nighter at Cleveland while third-place Chicago, trailing by two games, is at Los Angeles for a night game.

Tsitouris, who brought his record to 8-11 with his first shut-out of the season, was locked in a scoreless duel with Art Mahaffey, 12-9, until Ruiz darted home.

Chico led off the sixth with a single, moved to third on a single by Vada Pinson and, with Mahaffey pitching to Frank Robinson, suddenly broke for the plate. Mahaffey's throw was wide of the plate and skipped by catcher Clay Dalrymple.

Ruiz, however, was officially credited with his seventh steal of the season on a play that admittedly surprised everyone involved.

Johnson, now 11 - 16, was tagged for a homer by rookie Jim Hart in the fourth inning, then shackled the Giants on one hit the rest of the way.

Staub tied the score in the Colts' half of the fourth when he homered off Bob Bolin. Houston scored the tie-breaking run in the fifth on a single by Jim Wynn, a sacrifice and John Bateman's double.

The final Colt run scored in the eighth on a walk, Joe Morgan's single and a sacrifice fly by Staub.

Prosen Closest in Grid Contest; Second Ballot Today on Page 12

How do you go about winning The Times-Mirror's football contest?

Maybe by buying a barber shop and having a partner!

Two Warren men, both barbers and partners in the same barber shop, finished one-two in the first week's contest conducted although neither one picked enough correct answers to be eligible for the $50 first prize.

Tony Prosen of Prosen's Barber Shop at 238 Pennsylvania Ave. west was the winner picking 12 out of 20 correctly. Prosen was one of six entrants in the contest to pick 12 correctly. He was chosen the winner by the judges by coming the closest in the tie breaking question.

The tie breaking question every week will ask entrants to guess the number of net yards rushing the Pittsburgh Steelers will gain during their game of the week. According to the Steelers' front office the team gained 137 yards net rushing. Prosen's guess was 131.

Joe Huber, Prosen's partner in the barber shop, also picked 12 correctly in the contest. His guess in the tie-breaker was 149 yards, just a little too far off.

Four other people also picked 12 games correctly but were way off in answering the tie-breaker question. One of the entries which picked 12 correctly was eliminated when the tie-breaker was not filled in.

Prosen will receive, as the consolation winner, a year's subscription to The Times-Mirror.

It was a week of big upsets and, something which may never happen again, four ties out of the 20 teams listed. Two professional games, Cleveland - St. Louis and Los Angeles-Detroit, ended in a tie as did the North-Over Franklin and Sheffield over Johnsonburg.

The last two games both ended in scoreless ties.

Heading the list of upsets were the New York Giants' defeat at the hands of Pittsburgh and Dallas' win over Washington. Both the Giants and the Redskins were favored to win, but so was Green Bay.

On the college scene, most people missed the William & Mary-VMI game in which VMI was favored and the Washington-Air Force game in which Washington was a big favorite. It was surprising how many people let loyalty rule their selections and stuck with Penn State, although the Lions were not given much of a chance to defeat Navy, and didn't.

The most-missed game locally was the Youngsville-Cambridge Springs encounter which saw the Eagles 18-7 victors. Most of the entrants stayed with Warren over Franklin and Sheffield over Johnsonburg.

The Times-Mirror wishes to point out that it is NOT necessary to list scores of games, only to check the team which you think will win the game. In case you think the game will end in a tie, simply put a "T" beside both teams.

Entries should be mailed to The Times-Mirror and received in the offices no later than Friday noon the week of the contest. Entries postmarked later than Thursday midnight will not be eligible.

Please make entries readable; unreadable entries cannot be judged.

Oilers Down Beavers; Tie for 1st

CORRY — Oil City's Jim Shaughnessy racked up over 200 yards last night and scored four touchdowns in leading the Oilers to a 33-20 victory over the Corry Beavers.

The win leaves the Oilers with a 2-0 record in Section II competition and a first place tie with Warren.

Corry's defense forced the Oil-offense to make several mistakes during the first half and resulted in the Beavers taking a first place tie with Warren.

Corry's defense forced the Oil-offense to make several mistakes during the first half and resulted in the Beavers taking a 14-7 lead into the locker room at halftime.

Oil City came back to go ahead 20-14 in the third quarter only to see Corry tie the game at the start of the fourth.

Then, as one Corry observer put it, "Oil City just went wild" scoring two quick touchdowns and holding onto a 33-20 lead for the victory.

Shaughnessy was unstoppable gaining 196 yards on the ground around end, through the middle and any other place he could find. He also gained over 10 yards catching passes from Oil-quarterback Terry Ray.

"We're not counting on them to lose," said Yankee Manager Yogi Berra. "We have to win on the field. We must keep the edge in the loss column."

In the loss column, the Yankees have a formidable edge — three over the Orioles and four over the White Sox. The Yankees have 14 games remaining, the pursuers 10 each.

Besides the advantage in the loss column, the Yankees apparently have another big plus in momentum, having won five straight, seven of eight and 20 of their last 27 in the pennant push.

Jim Brown Supports Muslim View

CLEVELAND (AP) — Pro football star Jimmy Brown of the Cleveland Browns says he is not a member of the Black Muslims but supports the views of the Negro organization.

"Some people may not like what I have to say," the Negro fullback said Monday in explaining some statements he made on racial discrimination in this week's edition of Look Magazine.

"That doesn't matter to me," he went on. "The things had to be said. As far as football goes, it won't make any difference. If I can produce, it won't matter. And if I can't, then it doesn't matter either."

A spokesman for the National Football League club declined comment on the article, which is from a book authored by Brown entitled, "Off My Chest."

Among the things Brown, a $50,000-a-year player now in his eighth season with Cleveland, touched on:

—White racial attitudes — "I protest prejudice, but I am a prejudiced man. The white man has forced me to be prejudiced against him..."

—Ex-coach Paul Brown — "Although I was billed as Paul's star performer, I had no relationship with him. I wanted to, but his aloofness put him beyond approach... my six years under Paul Brown were as much as I could stomach..."

On the racial issue, Brown wrote:

"The first thing the white man must understand is the depth of our protest. Does he realize that the Black Muslim's basic attitude toward whites is shared by almost 98 per cent of the Negro population?"

The Black Muslim sect is a Negro group that advocates separation of the races and preaches a theory of Negro supremacy.

"I am not one of the Muslims," Brown said. "Yet I'm all for them because we need every possible element going for us. The more commotion, the better. Do I sound bitter? I am not in the least bitter. You don't have to be bitter to fight. If people throw rocks at your home, you don't have to be bitter to come out ready for action."

Why I'm Broke—Taxes, Not Golf

By JOE LOUIS

I am broke because of income taxes and not because of any money I lost playing golf. I lost money golfing and I won money golfing but the taxes are the big thing.

I really don't know how much I owe the government. When that income man said "one million," I stopped listening. All I know is that I'm clean with Uncle Sam on my present taxes. I still pay them right along just like I've been doing for the last 10 years. The one thing they did was stop adding the interest on what I owe them. I just go along, keeping up on my present tax. If I have any left over then I'll pay some against my old bill.

My accountant worked out an agreement in 1958. Any time I get enough money to offer the government a settlement on what I owe I'm supposed to do it. But I never offered any settlement because I never had that kind of money.

Now about that golf business. I'm nuts about golf all right but I never lost the kind of money playing golf that people say. When you play for $5 and you maybe lost $50, all of a sudden people are saying you lost $500 to $1,000. Like when you play with three other fellows you can lose a little if you play all day. But nothing like that $4,000 and $5,000 you read about.

I shoot in the 70s. How could I lose that kind of money? Most of the time you win or lose maybe $100.

It would take a whole week of newspapers to tell all about my tax troubles. Let's just say it all started when I went into the Army in 1942, owing $98,000 in back taxes. Once you get behind it's like quicksand. You keep sinking deeper and deeper.

While I was in the Army I borrowed $75,000 from Uncle Mike Jacobs and $31,000 from my manager, John Roxborough. I gave away close to $56,000 in tickets to a lot of soldiers up around Camp Shanks for the second Billy Conn fight in 1946. Tickets were $100 apiece and it didn't take long to run into big money.

One day they lowered the boom on me. I got a notice that the government wasn't allowing me to deduct those tickets and also the 25 per cent of my manager's purse that I gave Marva (Trotter) when we got divorced the first time. They sent me a bill for about $100,000 years after I made some of the deductions.

It started doubling up because they hit you with 50 per cent penalty if you don't pay. It don't take long to get up to a million dollars when you're doubling. I'm doing my best and staying even. I know I owe for that old tax but I just don't have that kind of money. At least they stopped the interest. If I ever get the money, I'll pay all I can.

The record book says I got over $600,000 from the second Conn fight and over $4 million for all my fights. First you have to say half went to my manager. Maybe you get to keep 10 to 20 per cent, if you're lucky. I would be better off if they took the tax right out of the purse like they do now.

When you are champion of the world, everybody expects big tips. Everything costs you more. I can live on $10,000 a year easy but as Joe Louis, in those days I had to hand around another $50,000 to everybody else because you're the champion.

If a fighter could average what he makes over 10 years it would help. Because 10 years is when you make your money. There have been a lot of politicians talking about it but nobody's doing anything about it.

After I retired and they set up the International Boxing Club, I had a 25 per cent interest in the club and a salary of $20,000 a year. They went on for about 10 or 11 years. I never got the 25 per cent because there weren't any earnings, only the $20,000 salary, plus expenses and everything when you traveled. Then the IBC was broke up and that was the end of everything.

Right now the biggest thing I have is an interest in a milk company in Chicago, an insurance business and a public relations company in New York. We do some work for Sammy Davis, Jr. and some other actors. I referee quite a lot and I also did a night club act with Pearl Bailey and another singer, Joan Shaw.

Tomorrow: Joe shuns Black Muslims but tells how he helped Robinson beat color line.

Will Honor Wolverine '30-31 Unit

A smoker honoring the 1930-31 Sheffield High School football team is being planned by the Sheffield Sports Boosters at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 2. Tickets for the affair, which includes dinner, are priced at $1.

The Wolverine team of that school year compiled an 8-1 record losing their first game of the season to Warren, 14-7. After that, it was all easy going. Members of the team include Captain Paul Delmar, Warren, William Brooker, Warren; Everett Benson, Robert Hart, John Cashmere and Ray Burgason, all of Sheffield; Alfred Anundson, Merle Andrews, John Piscar and Harry Samuelson, all of Erie;

Also Joe Servideo, Johnsonburg; Edward Sprague, Massury, Ohio; Fabian Lichtenberger, Bradford; Charles Allings, Oklahoma; Sherm Stanford, State College; Thomas Dunn, Buffalo, N.Y.; Everett Borchert, Niagara Falls, N.Y.; and manager Bennie Viscio of Sacramento, Calif.

The following are the scores of other games played that year, all victories: Tidouete 64-7, St. Joseph's 33-7, Ridgway 6-0, Corry 6-0, Brockway 52-0, Port Allegheny 20-0, Kane 44-0 and Youngsville 13-0.

Tickets may be obtained from Rich Moore, Guy Wenker, Chuck Christenson, Joe Korchak or Red Haser. The dinner is being catered by Helen and Guy Wenker of the White Lunch.

Red Auerbach Celtics' New General Manager

BOSTON (AP) — Lou Piri once refused to invest in the Boston Celtics unless Red Auerbach was hired as coach. Now he's handed the fiery court genius "full authority" as vice president and general manager.

Auerbach, who was 47 Sunday, was put in "complete charge" Monday of the team he's directed to six straight National Basketball Association crowns and seven in eight. The most successful coach the pro game has ever known will begin his 19th campaign on the bench as well.

Piri was elected president of the team, succeeding the late Walter Brown, by the board of directors Monday. However, the Providence, R.I., resident and Celtics' part-owner said that the logical development of things probably will see Auerbach holding the office of president in several years.

Several Panthers Nurse Injuries; Will Be OK Sat.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Several Pitt Panthers are nursing injuries but are expected to be ready for Saturday night's game with Oregon at Portland.

First stringers who have injuries are tackles Ron Linaburg and Jim Jones, center Marty Shottenheimer, guard Ray Popp, right halfback Bill Bodie and fullback Barry McKnight.

After Monday's practice head coach John Michelosen said the Panthers held only a light workout. "But we went over just about every phase of the game we expect to play against Oregon, both defensively and offensively," he added.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

(Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.)

FOR WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 23

MARCH 21 to APRIL 20 (Aries) — No outstanding impressive opportunities indicated, yet there are hidden gems of value in the day which you may overlook if you are too hasty, too anxious or too superficial in your appraisals.

APRIL 21 to MAY 21 (Taurus) — Venus auspicious. A fine opportunity for you to exploit your ingenuity and originality — and to bag some new profits in the doing.

MAY 22 to JUNE 21 (Gemini) — Mercury influences, considerably improved since yesterday, now spark new incentive and ambition. You may now be able to attain a goal which you could not reach before. It's certainly worth a try.

JUNE 22 to JULY 23 (Cancer) — Good lunar influences suggest the revival of old projects if still feasible, and the launching of new ones that could better your chances of advancement. Choose wisely, noting all potentials.

JULY 24 to AUGUST 23 (Leo) — Take a giant step if you have the know-how and feel that the time is ripe. Fine solar influences should inspire top-flight efforts.

AUGUST 24 to SEPTEMBER 23 (Virgo) — Some good news or friendly cooperation should aid you in perfecting long-range plans. Study new trends, developments. But don't cogitate so long that you lose out on a "good thing."

SEPTEMBER 24 to OCTOBER 23 (Libra) — Act swiftly if conditions seem right, but proceed slowly where the going is tricky and there are obstacles which cannot be overlooked. Good strategy will count now.

OCTOBER 24 to NOVEMBER 23 (Scorpio) — Day awaits YOUR move. Study situations and dispositions first. The wrong turn could cause a setback, but the right one could put you well in advance of schedule — with extra bonuses.

NOVEMBER 23 to DECEMBER 21 (Sagittarius) — Jupiter, favorable, stimulates your talents and capacity for handling weighty or complicated matters. Team up your innate foresight and good judgment to achieve enviable rewards.

LBJ Plans Campaign 'Look People in Eye'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson says he is going out to talk to the people and "look them in the eye," but pledges "I will be president first" and not let campaigning interfere with White House duties.

He made it clear at a news conference Monday that while engaged in "visiting all over this country" he intends to be just about as nonpartisan as a fellow can be and still run for the nation's highest office.

Topping this off, the President greeted a large aggregation of representatives of fraternal organizations by telling them they were visiting their White House and that the office he holds was "the office of all the people."

"I do not know your politics," he said. "I do not care about your partisanship. I do know — and I do care — about your leadership."

Then he proceeded to sound a campaign theme. It was that the country is "more prosperous than ever before," is "better prepared than ever before" and is "more determined to preserve peace than ever before."

Admitting a band of surprised tourists at a White House gate, Johnson led them and reporters for four laps around the White House back lawn. As he progressed, he answered news-men's questions.

He didn't think, he said, that when he held news conferences that he was making "a Democratic appearance." The Federal Communications Commission reportedly can't agree on whether televised versions of such conferences requires broadcasters to offer equal time to any Johnson opponent.

"I don't consider reviewing a hurricane as a political thing," he said. "It could help you or hurt you." This was in reference to this recent visit to hurricane-devastated areas of Florida and Georgia which some Republicans suggested was more political than presidential.

He went on to say that he will continue to be in and out of the White House and his duties there will have "first priority."

"I will be president first, but we will be out campaigning when the opportunity permits, to the extent it permits," he said.

Mentioning a forthcoming fund-raising speech in Cleveland, Ohio, and a series of speeches in New England as political, Johnson said the Democratic party would pay his expenses on them. But on other occasions he said the president had to do "just like I am doing now" and that wasn't political.

Gov. Scranton Supports Goldwater for 'Honesty'

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP) — Pennsylvania Gov. William Scranton, once one of Barry Goldwater's sharpest critics, says he now supports the Arizona senator for president because of his "honesty and courage."

Scranton, making his first national campaign for the Republican ticket, also says he believes Goldwater is "more interested in conserving freedom and individual liberty... and in peace with honor" than anyone he knows.

However, Scranton, beaten by Goldwater for the presidential nomination, made a point of saying in three speeches in Iowa Monday that there are still some issues on which he disagrees with Goldwater.

At a press conference in Cedar Rapids, his last Iowa stop, Scranton said those differences are on nuclear warfare and civil rights. He did not elaborate, and never mentioned either issue during his Iowa talks.

While campaigning for the nomination, Scranton was critical of Goldwater's statements on nuclear warfare and his vote against the civil rights bill.

But he told Iowans he believes he made his differences with Goldwater clear before the Republican convention and Goldwater now "must carry the heavy mantle of leadership in our party. The time has come for us to help him."

Scranton received a rousing welcome at his stops at Iowa City, Fort Dodge and Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and then flew on to his southern Minnesota city to begin a day of campaigning in this state.

His largest audience in Iowa was at Cedar Rapids, where police estimated more than 3,000 turned out for an evening outdoor rally.

Scranton was accompanied by his wife, Mary, who appeared in three different dresses during the day, and the top Republican candidates in Iowa.

Scranton Asks Poverty War Get at Root Causes

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Scranton says if the federal "war on poverty" is to succeed, the root causes — "not merely the symptoms" — of social disintegration must be attacked.

The governor said that private and local and state government proposals within the scope of the program must include:

— "Offer promises not merely of short-range and temporary palliatives but long-range solutions to poverty."

— "Foreseeably produce improvement of many persons and not merely benefit narrow or special interest groups."

— "Make clear the willingness and ability of the communities to support the proposal financially both at present and throughout the life of the proposal."

Scranton made the admonitions in a memorandum Monday to mayors of all Pennsylvania cities, county commissioners, the president of the League of Cities, borough associations, township supervisors, the Association of County Commissioners of Pennsylvania and the chairman of the Pennsylvania Citizens Council.

Scranton said there had been "no dearth of ideas" for programs to improve community life, adding that often the required funds were not always available.

Now, the memorandum continued, the federal economic opportunity act of 1964 — if "implemented properly" — provides "one more tool which... can help provide opportunity for more people" in Pennsylvania.

Scranton announced last week that the Bureau of Community Development in the Commerce Department would be the responsible state agency for the coordination of the "war on poverty" within the commonwealth.

Kiwanis Head Hits Govt. 'Frustration'

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Good government leaders must have backing and recognition or they become frustrated in their attempts to provide good service, says Philip Broadhead, Pennsylvania District governor of Kiwanis International.

Broadhead told delegates Monday at the opening of the Pennsylvania District convention, "If we want good leaders, we've got to back them."

'Friendly Persuasion' Now Way Of Handling Cambridge Situation

By GORDON BEARD

CAMBRIDGE, Md. (AP) — Friendly persuasion has replaced bayonets and tear gas on the streets of Cambridge, where racial turbulence kept National Guard troops on duty for more than a year.

The Guard still is represented, but it's a detachment composed solely of Capt. William A. Harris.

The work of the 44-year-old Negro has been so impressive his tour of duty has been extended twice, and Harris now is to remain until after the November elections.

Gov. J. Millard Tawes agreed to the latest extension, requested by Dorchester County State's Attorney Awdry C. Thompson and by Clarence Miles, who heads a special commission named by Tawes to promote interracial harmony in the community of 12,200.

Harris was relieved as deputy U.S. marshal at the request of Maryland Atty. Gen. Thomas B. Finan and sent to Cambridge May 19 as a member of Gen. George Gelston's staff. His assignment: Work with the Negro community to find out their chief desires and needs.

When the last troops were removed July 11, one week after the federal civil rights law was enacted, Miles asked the governor to keep Harris in Cambridge as a liaison man between the white and Negro communities.

"Capt. Harris is like a chemical catalyst," says Maurice Rimpo, editor of the Cambridge Banner. "If someone like him had been here two years ago to keep open the lines of communication, we may never have had serious racial trouble in Cambridge. He speaks the language of both sides."

During the day, Harris literally lives in the streets, where he can reach more people. He has a nodding acquaintance with many residents. Some call him by name; others wave as he passes.

Harris organized Boy Scout troops and recreational activities this summer to keep Negro youths off the streets. They were active in demonstrations last year.

But his work hasn't been confined to the youngsters. Harris took a group of Negro senior citizens to Baltimore, where they visited a public housing project to see how activities for older people could be organized.

"I'm interested in cultural contacts," Harris said. "Some of the older people had not been out of Cambridge for 20 years. They must be exposed to the outside, to get a different insight on life."

Rescue Teams Keeping Up Attempt To Reach Miners

MERCURY, Nev. (AP) — Workmen sought urgently today to extricate a mass of electrical cable and free four men trapped 1,800 feet underground in a nuclear test shaft.

"It's a slow, agonizing process," said an Atomic Energy Commission spokesman. "The workmen have never come up against a problem like this before."

A steel cable supporting the electrical cable snapped about 6 p.m. Saturday and whiplashed upward, striking and killing one man and injuring three others, none seriously.

The cable, thick as a man's wrist, collapsed in a spaghetti-like snarl and clogged the bottom 300 feet of the 1,800-foot shaft. The shaft, cylindrical and steel-lined, is four feet in diameter.

Three 35-man crews in eight-hour shifts were working at extracting the mass of cable.

The trapped men were "comfortable and cheerful and were settling down for a good night's sleep," an AEC spokesman said Monday night.

They were in a 30-square-foot room with a 10-foot ceiling,

Fire Prevention Week Plans Are Made by SGFD

SUGAR GROVE — Chief Carl Wolcott, reporting at the September meeting of Sugar Grove Volunteer Fire Department, said there had been but one alarm during the previous month. He outlined plans for the October observance of National Fire Prevention Week.

Clifford Storms presided for the monthly session in the fire hall, with 20 members attending. Carl Johnson, Lyle Houghwot and Donald Sherrard were named as a committee to transport Sabin vaccine from Warren to the local clinics.

The committee reported kitchen remodeling is progressing and the area is nearly ready for painting. Plans for the Saturday Field Day at Island Park, Youngsville, were announced and members discussed further fund-raising methods.

Following the meeting, lunch was served by Roy Christenson.

adjoining the base of the shaft and built to hold test instruments for a nuclear test blast.

Plastic-wrapped food was lowered to the men through a 10-inch ventilation shaft.

The trapped men are George R. Cooper, Tucson, Ariz.; Art Luhnnow, North Las Vegas, and Lloyd L. Shaw, Santa Barbara, Calif., all electricians, and Leonard Roeder, a miner, Pioche, Nev.

Killed by the lashing cable was James C. Gray, 45, Indian Springs, Nev.

More than 100 underground test blasts — in as many different shafts — have been conducted at the site, at Yucca Flats, about 110 air miles northwest of Las Vegas.

Pew Lauded By Scranton In Statement

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Scranton, commenting on the death of John G. Pew Jr., Monday, pictured the 55-year-old industrialist as having "earned great respect among all of us in the Republican party throughout the state as well as in Delaware County."

Scranton's office released the statement of sympathy here as the governor was campaigning in Iowa on behalf of GOP presidential nominee Barry Goldwater.

Pew, vice president of Sun Shipbuilding & Dry Dock Co., Chester, was one of Goldwater's early supporters in Pennsylvania at a time when most state Republican leaders were backing Scranton for the nomination.

Republican State Chairman Craig Truax also expressed sympathy over Pew's death. Truax said in a statement:

"His death is more untimely because it has removed from the political field a man whose great talent for organization and direction was important in this campaign."

Goldwater Attacks LBJ's Policies in South Viet Nam

By W. B. RAGSDALE JR.

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater said today President Johnson has "hundreds of lives and hundreds of lies to answer for" as a result of his policy for South Viet Nam.

The Republican presidential nominee described the fighting in South Viet Nam as "a conflict without end and without apparent purpose."

"The situation in Viet Nam seems to have deteriorated from confusion to chaos in the past 24 hours," Goldwater said, in a speech prepared for the first stop of a two-day campaign swing through the Southwest.

He added: "Reports of collapse and crisis along the fighting front, in the government, in the cities and in the villages have poured in."

Goldwater began his campaign swing on his 30th wedding anniversary. The trip will take the Arizona Senator and his wife through Texas and New Mexico, then back through the Midwest to New England, winding up Saturday in Michigan.

He hit the campaign trail again after taking a day off Sunday and spending most of Monday taping a television show in Gettysburg, Pa., with former President Dwight D. Eisenhower. It will be shown tonight on a nationwide hookup.

Mrs. Goldwater stayed behind Monday night when the senator

Grand Jury Is Drawn for New Court Session

Jurors have been drawn for the Oct. 5 grand jury. The court of common pleas and general quarter sessions is scheduled to open at 10 a.m. on that date.

Called to serve from Warren borough are: Thelma W. Fowler, Mary Massa, Anne Suppa, Louise C. Stohl, Julia H. Taylor and Forest E. Weaver.

Other jurors are: Lillian B. Landin, Glenn H. McIntyre, Dorothy E. Wilcox, Sugar Grove borough; Florence Mourer, Dominic A. Matteo, Doris E. Richards, William C. Sandberg, Beatrice E. Wing, Youngsville borough; Paul Grosch, Levi S. Huckabone, Conewango Twp.

Also: Joan B. Faust, Lucille S. Irvine, Freehold Twp.; Edward Benbenek, Pleasant Twp.; Dorothy A. Chappel, Pittsfield Twp.; Richard E. Curtin, Sheffield Twp.; Richard C. Huling, Brokenstraw Twp.; Emma Manuell, Southwest Twp.

flew down to Charlotte, N.C., for his third stop in that state within a week.

More than 12,000 cheered and applauded in the Charlotte Coliseum as Goldwater challenged President Johnson to a television debate.

"I challenge my opponent, the interim President Lyndon Baines Johnson, to face the issues," he said. "I dare him to face me before the world. I ask of him — debate."

The prepared text had said, "I demand of him — debate." Goldwater changed "demand" to "ask" in delivering the speech. There was no explanation for the change.

Last Jan. 31, Goldwater said that if he were President he would not debate an opponent on television. He said that a President might make a slip in a television debate would cost be costly to U.S. security.

So far, President Johnson has sidestepped the question of any debate with Goldwater on nationwide television.

In his Tulsa remarks, Goldwater challenged the administration to provide full information to the American people about the situation in South Viet Nam.

"After a weekend marked by a shooting incident in international waters that took more than a day even to partially explain, the new onrush of events remains unenlightened by a full report from our government," he said.

FALSE TEETH

That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor breath." Get FASTEETH at drug counters everywhere.
